Police Hunt Farmhand In Zimmerman Slaying

Couple's Car Found; Fingerprints Taken

An automobile, a bicycle, and the name of a former milker on the Everett F. Zimmerman ranch in North Marin figured prominently today in investigation of the bludgeon slaying of Zimmerman and his wife, Margaret.

The car — which sheriff's officers believe was driven from the ranch by the killer — was found yesterday in San Francisco, where it had been abandoned at the curb. Marin sheriff's officers today dusted it for fingerprints from engine grill to tail lights.

The bicycle was inside the car. Whether the killer rode it to the scene and hauled it away in the auto was a matter of surmise. But it was not taken there by a girl who spent the fatal night of Monday-Tuesday at the ranch at 1295 San Antonio Creek Road.

The former milker sought for questioning is James Luff, 48, who recently left his wife and family in Sonoma County and moved to Denver. He alone, among six former employees of the Zimmermans, may have had some grudge against his employer, said Undersheriff Sidney Stinson.

An all-points bulletin for Luff was put out by the sheriff's office today, saying he is wanted for questioning.

Zimmerman and his wife were bludgeoned to death as they lay in their bed sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning. Children sleeping outdoors nearby heard their dogs bark about midnight, and Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley has said medical evidenced indicated they were killed about that time.

Nothing was missing from their ranch home except the car, a maroon 1959 Chevrolet.

Yesterday, San Francisco police ticketed the car, a maroon 1959 Chevrolet.

Yesterday, San Francisco police ticketed the car for overparking at 1 p.m. It was still there, in a tow-away zone, at 4 p.m. and was towed to a private garage, where someone recognized the license number—EDC 701—and called a San Francisco radio disc jockey. He in turn notified police.

In the trunk of the car, officers found the bicycle, bearing a tag showing it had been sold in San Anselmo. Investigation quickly disclosed, however, that it had changed hands several times since its original sale. It might have belonged to some friend of the Zimmermans, but it might have been ridden to the ranch by the killer. Sher-

Toll May Rise In Ill-Starred Holiday Flight

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (UPI)—A Britannia Airways turbo-prop airliner carrying 117 Britons to a vacation on Yugoslavia's sun-drenched Adriatic coast struck a tree as it came in for a landing early today and disintegrated in flames.

Yugoslav authorities said 90 persons were killed and that 27 of the 117 passengers and British crewmen survived. Some were reported in critical condition and the death toll was expected to go higher.

The big "whispering giant" Britannia had skimmed over snowspecked hills shortly after midnight as it headed toward the Ljubljana airport on a charter flight from London. It hit a tree, cracked open like an egg and spewed victims over a field two miles short of the airport. The wreckage burst into flames.

Ljublajana is 70 miles northwest of Zagrab and near the intersections of Yugoslavia, Austria and Trieste.

E.D. Williams, managing director of the airline, said in England that "we know of no

Ohio City Alerts National Guard

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio National Guard units were ordered into Dayton today to help police quell gangs of rock-throwing, window-smashing Negro youths aroused by the shooting of a Negro by white men in a passing car.

Police blocked off a three-mile stretch of West Third Street, a predominantly Negro area, where gangs of youths hurled stones at any white person or autos that appeared on the street.

Sections surrounding the street also were guarded by blue-helmeted police. There were some reports of looting along with the smashing of windows in business places in the area.

A smattering of racial incidents and demonstrations spotted the Midwest last night in sharp contrast to the violence-marked nights earlier this week.

In Benton Harbor, Mich., where National Guardsmen were on call under a declared state of emergency, scattered groups of Negroes knotted around a filling station. There was only a minor disturbance, in contrast to three previous nights of violence.

State troopers dispersed the crowd but not before a few rocks and bottles were thrown.

Vietnamese, Planes Team To Hit Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. planes and South Vietnamese troops killed 117 Communists in an attack on a Communist strong hold just south of the demilitarized zone Wednesday night, a military spokesman reported today. U.S. B52 bombers followed up the action with two strikes today on the zone itself.

A spokesman said U.S. Air Force and Marines killed 60 troops in a strike against a big buildup of North Vietnamese infiltrating across the supposedly neutral zone and that Vietnamese troops swept in later by the light of flares and killed 57 more.

Planes hitting the Communist north on Wednesday blew up an ammunition dump in an explosion that sent red, orange and green balls of fire 4,000 feet into the air. Two more U.S. planes were shot down during the heavy air action.

A spokesman reported a sharp rise in Viet Cong terror incidents as the Hanoi government pressed its campaign to disrupt the Sept. 11 South Vietnamese elections. A spokesman reported 670 terror acts the past week as compared with 556 the week before.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets defeated San Francisco 2-1 today, knocking the Giants out of first place in the National League. Gaylord Perry was the losing pitcher.

Tiburon Becomes Third To Join Strawberry Jam

Although the first to speak up for it, the Tiburon City Council became the third contestant for Strawberry last night.

The council unanimously directed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to file an application with the local Agency Formation Commission requesting a hearing on annexation of Strawberry and all the rest of the unincorporated portion of the Tiburon Peninsula.

Since the council decided last week to prepare the application, a group of 41 Strawberry residents have filed a petition of intent to incorporate that area separately. Tuesday, Mill Valley City Mgr. Bert Balmer filed an annexation plan that included portions of the Strawberry area.

Rose told the Tiburon council last night, however, that the formation commission wanted to see all the proposals before it acted. The timing of the other applications "has no importance except for shock value," he said.

Mill Valley's application may not even be valid, Rose contended.

Before they voted, council members said the city had been prepared to move more slowly toward annexation. "We had been waiting patiently until things started happening," Mayor John S. Hoffmire said.

"We're going into this with our heads up, our hands on the table, trying not to politic," he said. "We hope the facts win out."

Vice-Mayor Thomas E. Drohan commented that "we don't want to drag 5,571 citizens into the city screaming; this would be absurd." Councilman William R. Brenner added: "We don't want to get into a street fight with Mill Valley."

In making the city's pitch before the 30-member audience, Hoffmire said Tiburon could offer the unincorporated areas a local voice, lower taxes, better police protection, and better planning. He said a seat on the planning commission and two seats on the parks and recreation commission were open for residents now outside the city.

"Two seats on the city council are up for grabs in a year, too," Drohan remarked.

A Strawberry resident, Mrs. John S. Morton of 15 Bayvista Drive, asked how Mill Valley could annex the business portions of Strawberry without the rest of the resident voting. Hoffmire explained that under Mill Valley's annexation proposal, residents of Tennessee Valley, for example, could outvote residents in the business areas.

"You're not in the Mill Valley vote, but you can vote in ours," Councilman Branwell D. Fanning told her.

The council made it quite clear that if the Strawberry Town and Country Village Shopping Center—the big tax plum—went to Mill Valley, Tiburon would not annex the rest of the peninsula.

Willis Hits Elimination In Education

"We say we are providing everyone in the United States an education needed for his ability, but we are not doing this. Instead we're running an elimination contest."

This was the theme of Dixie School District Supt. Dennie B. Willis, speaking at an assembly for teachers, other district employees and heads of parent groups at Bernard Hoffman School in Terra Linda last night.

"We should cut out the grading system, at least in the primary grades," Willis said. He recommended that a committee be formed to study the change, perhaps with a nongrade system started for first through third grade in the fall of 1967 in Dixie.

Willis said the elimination contest in schools starts in the first grade when faster readers are segregated from slower ones. "We start flunking them out in high school, and no college can call itself a college unless it flunks a quarter of the freshman class," he said.

With the first three grades nongraded, some pupils might complete them in four years and some in two. Eventually nongrading should be extended through the junior high level, Willis said.

The Dixie superintendent also

Strawberry Residents File For Incorporation

Proposal to create a new city in Marin, the City of Strawberry, was officially placed before the Local Agency Formation Commission today.

Attorney Stephen H. Kaufmann, who filed a notice of intention to circulate an incorporation petition with the county clerk Monday, applied for approval from the LAFC today.

It was just a day after Mill Valley City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer filed application with the LAFC for approval of an annexation that would send the Mill Valley boundaries to the Pacific in one direction and take in Strawberry in the other.

John F. Barrows, executive officer of the LAFC, said the law requires that applications involving the same territory be considered in the order in which they are filed.

Still not filed with the commission by noon today was Tiburon's plan for annexation of the entire unincorporated portion of the Tiburon Peninsula, including Strawberry.

Johnson Moves To Halt Redwood Spite Cutting Within New Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson ordered introduction today of emergency legislation to block a California timberman from cutting his own trees — because they are inside the boundaries of a proposed redwoods national park.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall told newsmen after a conference with Johnson that the unusual legislation would prohibit the Miller Redwood Co. of Crescent City, Calif. from cutting the redwood trees—the largest and oldest in the world—for one year pending congressional action on plans for the proposed 46,000-acre park near Eureka.

Udall, denouncing the lumbering operations of the Miller Co. and its owner, Harold Miller, said that because the trees are the principal attraction of the proposed park, Miller "is trying in effect to destroy the park."

He made public a letter in which he told Miller, after fruitless negotiations aimed at a compromise that:

"You and your associates have elected to pursue an outrageous public-be-damned, conservation - be - damned approach to thise whole issue."

He characterized Miller's logging operations as "a spite-cutting action designed to destroy the great trees whose preservation is the main purpose of the park."

In Crescent City the Miller, Co. said Udall once told company officials:

"If you do not accept this proposal, I really will tee off on you."

Gen. Mgr. Darrell Schroeder, speaking for the company, added:

"This evidently is what Secretary Udall meant."

"When he invited us to Washington recently to see if we could work something out, he was insistent that we withdraw from the proposed 18,000 acres of Miller land that would be included in the proposed 36,000 acre park.

"He suggested that we withdraw and operate in other lands but, realizing there would be losses to the company, said he would make up those losses by donations from some foundation.

Thant Declines New Term In U.N. Office

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Thant announced today he will quit the Unitel Nations when his present five-year term expires Nov. 3, and that he will not be a candidate for a second term.

Despite the finality of Thant's statement it was considered certain U.N. diplomats would make an all out effort to draft him for at least a partial term rather than create a leadership crisis.

United Press International learned of Thant's final decision as his statement was being released to the 117-member organization.

He said he was confident in the future of the world organization but reiterated his philosophy that no man is indispensable and that no man should serve two terms as secretary general.

Thant decided to quit because he is frustrated in the world organization's effectiveness as

Walkout Expected

LONDON (AP) — Aides say Prime Minister Harold Wilson is ready to face a walkout of some African nations at the Commonwealth summit meeting next week rather than abandon his search for a compromise with Rhodesia, although Prime Minister Sir Albert Margai of Sierra Leone called yesterday for British military intervention to end the rebellion, which began last November when Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence in the name of the white minority.

MAID OF CALIFORNIA — Susie Bruderlin

Miss Orange Wins State Title

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Orange County claimed with pride today for the second straight year the Maid of California—Susie Bruderlin, 20, an aspiring actress.

She won the title from 38 other contestants last night to wrap up the opening day of the 113th state fair.

A tall blonde, the new maid stands 5 feet 7 inches and weighs 124 pounds. She is a drama and French major at Orange Coast College.

Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson had to stand on tiptoes to place the crown on Miss Bruderlin's head before an overflow crowd of hundreds at Governor's Hall at the fair and a Sacramento area television audience.

Runnersup were Miss Siskiyou County, Gay Thatcher, 18, and Miss Los Angeles County, Pamela Valori Pall, 19.

Farm Workers Ballot Favors AFL-CIO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The AFL-CIO claims an unofficial victory over the Teamsters in the nation's first agricultural union representation election held in Delano Tuesday for Di Giorgio Corp. workers.

But arbitrators say that the vote by 1,349 farmhands is snarled by 332 challenged ballots and that final results won't be available for at least two days.

And the Teamsters say no matter what the outcome, they'll not concede defeat in their plans to proceed with a drive to try to unionize the bulk of California's 80,000 farm workers.

Mexican-American labor leader Cesar Chavez announced yesterday in Delano results of the balloting Tuesday as counted by unofficial AFL-CIO observers, as favoring his group 528 to 328 The American Arbitration Assn. is in charge of the election.

Chavez said the AFL-CIO united Farm Workers Organizing Committee had won representation for field workers at the DiGiorgio Corp. Sierra Vista grape ranch and the that the Teamsters were chosen to speak for the smaller group of shed workers.

Nod To City Nurses' Pay Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco County Board of Supervisors early today approved the pay hike proposal that officially ended a day-long "sick leave" strike by nurses at three city hospitals.

The board's action came at the end of a rather stormy five-hour meeting during which Mayor John F. Shelley explained the details of the pay package and City Controller Nat Cooper told how it would be funded.

After the marathon session, Shelley went behind closed doors to talks with nurses and union officials who were disgruntled over a portion of the package.

They talked for about an hour, and when they emerged from Shelley's office a spokesman said the new salary range would be explained to the city's 800 nurses at three meetings later today. The spokesman said there would be no vote on the package.

Medicare May Hike Private Fees Too

CHICAGO (AP) — With doctors' fees and hospital charges on the rise, private patients in some hospitals are facing the possibility that a medicare cost squeeze could develop to boost their bills still higher.

A cost-squeeze showing hasn't developed yet, with the medicare program only two months old, but officials attending the annual meeting of the American Hospital Assn. indicated in interviews and speeches that it might.

HIGHER PAY

Dr. Philip D. Bonnet of Boston, immediate past president of the AHA, predicted nurses' strikes for higher pay in various parts of the country, prospective wage boosts for other hospital employees, minimum wage legislation and unemployment compensation coverage could boost patient fees by as much as 25 per cent in the next year.

Hospital rates went up 7.7 per cent in the last 12 months while physicians' fees went up 5.7 per cent.

Robert M. Ball, Social Security commissioner, said the one-millionth medicare patient is expected to be admitted to one of the nation's hospitals next week but the costs and government reimbursement features of the program still are under study.

Ball told the hospital administrators, however, that the government's formula for reimbursing hospitals for "keeping abreast of the times" would be re-evaluated promptly as experience is gained under the program.

A major issue is the current formula under which the government pays hospitals operating under medicare 2 per cent of their operating budget as a cost-plus feature. Such funds, for example, would be used to train personnel to operate a kidney machine or other technical equipment which could become obsolete in a few years.

LOSING MONEY

The new AHA president, George E. Cartmill, president of Harper Hospital, Detroit, said in an interview:

"We feel we could live with the 2 per cent formula but too many factors have been knocked out. We believe it will be shown that hospitals have been losing money. If the reimbursement is insufficient to cover costs, hospitals will have no alternative but to raise their bills to cover these additional costs."

He said Blue Cross and other health insurance policies would be hiked in such event.

AHA spokesmen take the position that costs uncovered for medicare patients should not have to be passed on to patients footing their own medical bills.

Press Wire Clarifies It's Reagan Quote

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— In a Los Angeles dispatch on Tuesday United Press International incorrectly reported that Republican candidate for governor Ronald Reagan said he would not give Sen. Thomas Kuchel endorsement in 1968.

The dispatch should have reported that Reagan said he would not give Kuchel a primary endorsement. The reference to the primary was inadvertently dropped in transmission.

In a television appearance Reagan said he would not endorse any GOP candidate in the primary but would endorse all those who survive the primary in the general election.

Red Youth Told 'Reason, Don't Hit People'

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's new strong man, Defense Minister Lin Piao, called on the militant young Red Guards last night to expand the purge now sweeping the Chinese mainland but warned them against coercion and force.

"Don't hit people," Mao Tze-tung's heir apparent told 500,000 young Red Guards and other revolutionary youths in Peking's Square of Heavenly Peace.

Lin, 59, said he spoke for Mao, who rode around the square at his side during the rally. But the 72-year-old chairman of the Communist party did not speak.

Lin, according to the New China News Agency, called on the Red Guards to carry out their campaign by reasoning and not by coercion or force.

Lin told the youths to "further develop the cultural revolution —smash four olds (old ideas, old culture, old customs and old habits) and deal a heavy blow to a handful of bourgeois rightists."

But coercion or force, he said, "can only touch their skins" while reasoning can "touch their souls, show their counter-revolutionary features, isolate them to the maximum, discredit them, pull them down and smash them."

From elsewhere in the Communist world came a report of opposition to the purge inside China and condemnation from other Communist parties.

Helicopter Crash Still Puzzling Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"There were two of the first helicopter pilots in the land. They were in command of their birds at all times.

"It just doesn't add up."

Leon Owens, senior police department helicopter pilot, was trying to account for the mid-aid collision Tuesday that killed five persons over Dodger Stadium. Police and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators have not found the cause.

This much is known, the Coroner's Office said yesterday:

The occupants of the police helicopter and the radio station KMPC craft that crashed in flames as hundreds of motorists watched died of crushing injuries and fragmentation. The pilots were not shot, nor did they suffer heart attacks.

Killed were Max Schumacher, pilot of the KMPC craft; his passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley Newcomb of San Gabriel; and two men in a police helicopter, pilot Alex N. Ilnicki and observer Larry Amberg.

Police said yesterday they are investigating the possibility that a gunshot from the ground led to the collision. Officers said they have no evidence except an anonymous telephone call from a woman who said she saw a man fire a rifle just before the crash.

Peace Corps Gets $110 Million Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House passed and sent to the White House yesterday a bill authorizing the Peace Corps to operate for its sixth year at a cost of $110 million. Approval came on a 322-15 roll call vote.

During debate on the Senate-passed measure, the House was told that Peace Corps volunteers were now at work in 46 countries and that there are more applications from foreign governments than can be filled. The 14,800 volunteers now on the job will be increased to about 16,000 during the next 12 months.

Shy Witness Says He Saw Death Shot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— A shy prosecution witness in the Dow Wilson murder trial identified one of the defendants yesterday as the driver of a car which sped away from the scene when the San Francisco Painters Union official was killed by a shotgun last spring.

Joey de la Cruz told the jury at the murder-conspiracy trial of Sacramento painting contractor Norman Call that the driver was Max Ward, another defendant in the case.

SEPARATE TRIAL

Trials for Ward, a Carmichael painting contractor, and two more defendants will be held separately. They include Oakland accountant Carl Black and San Francisco tavern operator Richard Rock, 33, a Mill Valley resident.

The prosecution is attempting to prove that Wilson was slain because he planned to reveal shortages in the welfare fund of the Sacramento Painters Union. Call and Ward were trustees of the fund, and Carl Black was its accountant.

De La Cruz, San Francisco, testified yesterday that he had trouble sleeping on the night of April 4 and decided to go for a walk. He said he was on his way home about 1 a.m. when he heard footsteps behind him.

"Because of the time of the morning, I turned and saw three men."

Previous testimony had identified the three as Wilson and Mike Masia and John Basille, members of the Painters Union.

De La Cruz, who had remained anonymous while testifying before the grand jury which returned indictments against Ward and Call, told the court that near the corner of 15th St. and South Van Ness Ave. he noticed "a car parked by the hamburger stand, and there were two men in it."

The witness identified Ward as the driver.

He said he heard shots fired as he arrived at the intersection and that "they came from the hamburger stand where the car was parked."

After the shots, he related, the car left, "very, very fast toward 16th St. with no lights on."

De La Cruz said he went home and told his wife that he had witnessed a killing. However, "she was very frightened and I said nothing more about it."

De La Cruz waited more than three weeks before telling his story to the police "because my wife kept reminding me the children's lives were at stake because those men were serious."

Masia also was called to the witness stand by Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Walter Giubbini.

DRINK STOP

Masia testified that he, Wilson and Basilli had attended a San Francisco painters executive board meeting that evening and stopped to have "four or five" drinks.

Masia said that he and Basilli then went to the latter's car and Wilson "walked on through the parking lot toward South Van Ness.

"Just as we started the car we heard these loud noises. We thought they were backfires," the witness said.

State Board: Three Years To Redistrict

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California's Supreme Court yesterday gave the Legislature until 1969 to redistrict the Board of Equalization.

The court denied a petition by Phillip Silver and Pat Galati of Los Angeles asking that state authorities be directed not to certify elections to the board until redistricting was completed.

The court added: "The petition is denied without prejudice to the right to seek similar relief if the Legislature has not enacted a redistricting measure for the Board of Equalization by the close of its regular 1969 session."

In 1964, the 4th District which includes Los Angeles had 10,583,000 persons. The smallest of the other three districts comprises 24 counties with 1,373,000 persons.

The board sets assessments for large corporations and equalizes taxes throughout the state.

Demos Fall Out Over Fund Drive

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democratic state chairman Charles Warren wants the Dollars for Democrats drive dominated by the California Democratic Council, says the ousted drive director.

"I know he's trying to put on a one-man show and exercise complete dominance," said William Mitchell after Warren replaced him with Assemblyman Alfred Sond yesterday.

"Many county chairmen are not going to follow his leadership. It's a sorry plight for the party."

Oklahoman Pleads Guilty

Thomas G. Farmer, 34, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to second-degree burglary. Visiting Judge Carson W. Taylor of Modesto certified the case to Marin Superior Court for judgment.

Farmer, from Oklahoma, burgled Shakey's Pizza Parlor, 4150 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, on Aug. 13. San Rafael police said they found him inside.

Plea came just prior to a scheduled preliminary hearing.

Auto, Highway Safety Bills Both Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to President Johnson today the second part of an auto and highway safety package designed to reduce the death and injury toll on the nation's roads.

It passed by voice vote a $322-million highway safety measure authorizing grants to states and cities to encourage them to set up more effective accident prevention programs.

The House had passed the compromise version of the legislation yesterday by a vote of 360 to 3, shortly after it had passed 365 to 0 the other part of the package — a bill giving the government power to set mandatory safety standards for all new cars, buses and trucks starting with 1968 models. The Senate passed that bill by voice vote yesterday.

Some congressional sources said they expect Johnson to sign both bills Monday in the auto capital of Detroit, where he will speak that day at a memorial for the late Sen. Pat McNamara.

New Kuchel Bill Will Protect Fish Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R - Calif., called today for a government program to protect American fishermen from piracy on the high seas.

He introduced a bill to provide for a system of government reimbursement of 40 to 60 per cent of permit and license fees which American ship owners would pay to foreign governments. The money would come from tariff levies on imported fish products.

Kuchel said American tuna boats have been seized off the West coast of Latin America while fishing in what the United States regards as international waters.

Fishermen of other nations, he said, are imperiling the American fishing industry by invading the spawning beds of perch and hake on the U.S. continental shelf.

"Indeed," Kuchel told the Senate, "we are reaching the point when all the nations of the world must either join together to provide for an equitable sharing of the resources of the sea, or we must face a growing anarchy, brutal competition for fish supplies and the kind of piracy we have experienced off the coast of Latin America."

evidently a cash payoff.

"Then, if we couldn't get together on price, he said he would try to get a tax benefit to offset the differential in price. How a cabinet member can do that, I do not know."

Schroeder emphatically denied the company has been doing any spite cutting.

"Our forestry practices, as he knows, are the best the Interior Department ever witnessed," Schroeder said. "Our forest management is without peer. We are harvesting only old growth.

"In our area we make certain that old trees are being replaced with young growth.

"I can assure you that if congress acts as suggested, we will definitely be involved in litigation to get this cleared up. There are certain principles that the citizens of this country still have. I would say that the proposed congressional action is unconstitutional."

Schroeder said the trees in question definitely are not the world's biggest and oldest redwoods.

Schroeder said the department's proposals would put the company out of business.

"We are particularly disturbed over the fact that it would jeopardize the jobs of all of our employees, around 240," he said.

MURDER

iff's officers were trying to trace the ownership today.

Mrs. Raymond Sidbeck of San Anselmo, whose daughter was a guest in the Zimmerman home on the fatal night, said her daughter did not take a bicycle to the ranch. The girl, sleeping in another part of the house, heard no midnight outcry but later heard footsteps she thought were those of Zimmerman arising to milk the cows.

Stinson said Luff worked for Zimmerman twice, each for a period of a few months.

He left Zimmerman's employ the second time about nine months ago. Subsequently he left his wife and children in Fulton, Sonoma County, and went to Denver. There is a Sonoma County warrant for him charging failure to provide for his wife and children, Stinson said. Their names were found in a notebook "log" of the ranch operations.

The five other former employees, all of whom still live in Marin or Sonoma, all described Zimmerman as a good employer, willing to advance money on their wages if they needed it, Stinson said.

a peacekeeping force, particularly in Viet Nam.

He said he was "certain that my unwillingness to be available for a second term will not be misconstrued by those" who know of his faith in the United Nations and its "indispensability" to become an effective force to keep peace in the world.

He said the Security Council should now consider itself "unfettered" in its selection of a successor—the fourth man to head the world body in its 21 years of existence.

Thant said in a lengthy statement that he was "touched" by the support and appeals to him to remain in office coming from all corners of the world, including President Johnson.

He said his faith in the United Nations was "unshakable" and he expressed certainty of its "ultimate success."

Thant himself remained at home with his family in the swank Riverdale section of the city when his farewell statement was released.

He returned late last night from an official trip to Mexico and Chile. Informed sources said it was his last official trip as secretary general.

In effect, Thant gave the world body just 64 days to pick a successor.

Those close to Thant said he felt trapped in the vice of power politics and was deeply concerned over the failure of his attempts at securing peace in Southeast Asia.

told the staff it was time to insure that some of Dixie's programs, such as resource teachers, special teachers, one-session kindergartens and remedial reading specialist, be firmly established so that they will remain after unification comes with the San Rafael School Districts.

He called on all employees of the district to make a salary study, working perhaps with the Citizens Finance Committee, before making any request for salary increases next year.

Boys Outnumber Girls At Fair Beauty Booth

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Most of the customers at a beauty booth of the teen-age fair here have been boys, says amazed beauty operator Mary Ann Rentmeester.

"You wouldn't believe it," she said after conducting a free demonstration in which a 14-year-old boy had his hair dyed blue.

circumstances which would explain the crash."

Reports from the scene said the plane burst into flames after crashing. Wreckage was scattered over hundreds of yards.

British and Yugoslav investigating teams were reported at the crash site, near the village of Komend.

A spokesman for Ljubljana's central surgical clinic said 25 crash victims were brought to local hospitals. He said 17 needed surgery. Two surgical patients died after admission and one was dead on arrival.

The clinic spokesman said three of the hospitalized victims were in serious condition. Most were being treated for burns.

"We have every hope that they will pull through all right. We just have to wait and see," the spokesman declared.

Britannia Airways said the four-engine plane went down two miles from the end of the runway.

The airline said it was impossible to speculate on the cause of the crash until an investigating team reached Ljubljana, the capital of Sloveni, one of Yugoslavia's six republics.

J.S. Harrington, a director of Britannia Airways, said the plane was chartered to Universal Sky tours. In London, a spokesman for the tour organization said all 110 passengers were bound for a 12-day package-deal vacation in Ljubljana.

No one was hit.

Police released Willard Benfield, 36, a white man who had been arrested and arraigned on an open homicide charge in the fatal shooting of a Negro, Cecil Hunt, 19, during a demonstration.

Benton Harbor Police Lt. Alfred Hauwetter said today Benfield was released because the bullet extracted from the victim did not match Benfield's gun.

In Jackson, Mich., some 110 miles east of Benton Harbor, an integrated back-to-school dance erupted into a fighting, rock-throwing melee.

Thirty officers, armed with riot sticks, waded into the crowd and dispersed the youths.

Seven teen-agers were jailed. One white youth was hospitalized with a head injury.

In Milwaukee, Wis., after 11 straight nights of picketing to protest Circuit Judge Robert C. Cannon's membership in an all-white club, young civil rights workers picked out other targets.

"The issue hasn't changed, just the tactics," said Nate Harwell, and 75 young people quietly chanted as they circled in front of the home of County Judge Christ T. Seraphim.

Strawberry Drive, Strawberry, said the area now does not get back in services "anywhere near the proportion" of taxes collected from it. Dr. Cogswell has been circulating petitions for annexation to Tiburon.

Rose told the council that, at lunch with him Tuesday Balmer proposed that Mill Valley and Tiburon urge the formation commission to hear the Strawberry incorporation petition first. Assuming the idea would be defeated, the two cities would then propose to be heard jointly, "enjoying an open market within an area of contest," as Rose put it.

Thet council ignored Balmer's relayed suggestion. Rose said Balmer planned to make the same proposal to the Mill Valley Council next Tuesday.

Pat And Luci Now Set Up Housekeeping

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent have set up housekeeping in their brick duplex apartment, guarded by concealed closed-circuit television cameras and Secret Service men.

One of their first chores was to stock up on groceries, including frozen pizza and dog food.

President Johnson's daughter, Luci, and her husbanl of three and a half weeks pulled up in front of their apartment in Luci's dark-green sports car at 4:10 p.m. yesterday.

Since their Aug. 6 wedding, elaborate security equipment has been installed. Three closed-circuit television cameras, their lenses barely visible in wooden containers matching the trim of the duplex, are trained on the front, side and back yards.

A hut with a one-way glass window was built for the Secret Service at the end of the carport. Also constructed was a high privacy fence along the side and back. Their refrigerator was moved in just 10 minutes before they arrived.

The Nugents parked across the street and ran down the steep driveway to their apartment.

"We're awful tired from a long trip," Luci told a bystander.

Less than two hours after they arrived, they drove to a nearby supermarket and bought $30.13 worth of groceries.

They took their time shopping talking about many purchases, sipping bottled soft drinks and signing autographs for other shoppers.

Like many new husbands, Pat whistled in dismay when the cashier rang up the total. He paid with a $50 bill.

Their four bags of groceries included milk, cereal, scouring pads, potato chips, dill pickles, paper towels, apple juice, canned mushrooms and mayonnaise.

Pat said the dog food was "just to have on hand" for when his dog-loving in-laws show up with their pets.

Luci and Pat plan to attend the University of Texas this fall. He will work on a master's degree in business administration. She said recently she would not go to school full time, but would take two liberal arts courses.

Lomita Park Will Stay In Residential Zoning

About 20 residents of Lomita Park attended a planning discussion at the Civic Center last night, on the future of their neighborhood.

It was generally agreed that the area, which includes portions of Bret Harte and Bret Harte Heights, should remain in residential zone, E. Ross Parkerson of the county planning department reported.

Assigned to study the area, Parkerson recommended single-family zoning with minimum 20,000-foot lots in Bret Harte Heights, single-family with minimum 10,000 square feet on the south side of Orange Street and west of Auburn Street, and single-family with 7,500 square feet between Orange and Auburn streets.

This is in keeping with what is there now, Parkerson said.

He had no recommendation on uses of property between Albion and Altena streets and Highway 101 and the low area north of Auburn Street in Bret Harte. "We might recommend some type of row housing," he said.

The matter will be discussed further by the Planning Commission Sept. 12.

The study was initiated by the application to lower apartment house density on two lots on Altena Street from 1,000 to 2,000 square feet of lot area per unit. The change, prompted by a sewer assessment levied by the San Rafael Sanitation District, was approved by the Planning Commission.

"The planning staff was reluctant to approve the change without some over-all study, Parkerson said.

Gone To The Dogs

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Town Clerk Otto Klumpp announced yesterday that there were about 10,500 dogs in this town of 60,000 persons, and he said this probably was the greatest ratio of dogs to humans of any community in the nation.

Fairfax Parolee Held In Supermarket Holdup

A 27-year-old Fairfax man, twice paroled for crimes committed in Marin, was arrested last night on suspicion of robbery in connection with a $600 supermarket holdup in San Francisco Monday.

To appear in a San Francisco police lineup this afternoon was Leo Anthony Weist of 189 Cascade Drive.

Weist was arrested after a green Ford Mustang, sought as the getaway car, was seen on Francisco Boulevard by San Rafael Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham, who trailed it to the Bermuda Palms Motel and notified Inspector Birdsall of the San Francisco Police.

Birdsall today said Weist had been tentatively identified by the holdup victims who picked his photograph from among a number furnished them.

The robbery occurred at 9 p.m. Monday, when a man armed with a .45 caliber automatic forced four employees of a Littleman's Market in the Richmond district to empty all the cash registers in the store.

He was seen to make his escape in the Mustang and the license number was taken.

Ownership of the car was traced to James D. Bell, a bartender at Hoagy's Bar, 711 Fourth Street, San Rafael, who said he lent it to Weist.

Weist was first sentenced in 1959 at the age of 20 to a five-year-to-life prison sentence for robbing a Kentfield pharmacy at gunpoint.

He was paroled in 1962 and rearrested two years later for attempted burglary in a San Anselmo medical center. Convicted, he was sentenced to one to 15 years imprisonment.

After serving a year and a half of that sentence, he was paroled June 7.

$19,250 Bid Accepted For School Office

The Fairfax School District Board Tuesday night accepted a bid by Modulus, Inc., of Newark, Alameda County, to provide a relocatable building for a district office at $19,250.

The contract, which will be signed at the board's regular meeting next Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. at Manor School, creates a lease-purchase option by which the district will make annual payments of $2,750 for seven years. When the district completes the payments, title of the building will pass to it.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond said he expects delivery of the building within six weeks. The district office is now at Central School in a teachers' converted lounge, which will be returned to the teachers.

Other bidders were Instant Space Leasing Division of Go-Cal., Inc., San Francisco, and Speedspace Corp. of Santa Rosa. Both exceeded the Modulux bid.

Harte Paintings On Exhibit At Motel

John Harte of 2280 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, is exhibiting four paintings at the Tiburon Lodge Motel on Tiburon Boulevard.

Harte, employed by Standard Oil Co. of California in Richmond, is a member of the Marin Society of Artists. He studied art at the University of Wyoming and the Art Institute of Chicago, and has had exhibits at the Lucien Lebaudt Gallery in San Francisco and the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo.

Child Molesters Are Often Relatives, Says Attorney

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Most child molesters are either close friends or members of the victim's family, not the oftencited "dirty old man" hanging around parks and playgrounds.

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger made this point in testimony yesterday before the Assembly Committee on Criminal Procedure.

Younger said the child molester most often is a father, stepfather, grandfather or uncle who lives in the same house as the boy or girl.

Friends who live with the family or who are part of the family circle outnumber strangers among men who commit crimes against children in public places, he added.

Younger's views, read to the committee by Lynn Compton, his chief assistant, came in a plea for a law giving district attorneys more powers in cases involving juvenile crime victims.

He said accused molesters often return to the home of the victim before their trial. If the mother or guardian is sympathetic with the defendant—which often is the case—the child becomes "a virtual prisoner in a very unpleasant situation," Younger said.

The district attorney should be allowed to bring such matters before the juvenile courts in an effort to remove the child from "this unwholesome atmosphere," Younger said.

Record Sentence For Smuggling Cigarettes

EASTON, Pa. (UPI) —Three New York men accused of smuggling untaxed cigarettes allegedly purchased in North Carolina were given what was believed a record sentence for a summary offense yesterday.

the men were ordered by Northampton County Alderman Francis Caslin to pay $34,942 each in fines or serve 34,942 days—more than 90 years—in prison.

They were identified as Ernest Varacalli, 23, Victor Alberti, 22, both of Brooklyn and Remy Serra, 40, Springfield Gardens, N.Y.

Caslin imposed the stiff fines under a revised criminal code providing a $25 fine per untaxed carton or one day in county prison for each unpaid dollar of the fine and costs.

Hoskins Burglary Plea Scheduled

Nicholai Leonard Hoskins, 18, was to plead to a charge of burglary this afternoon before visiting Judge Carson W. Taylor of Modesto in Marin Municipal Court.

Hoskins, of 362 Irwin Street; Michael Eugene Gilliam, of 314 Fifth Avenue, and Bryant Lynn Hamilton, of 1 Welch Street, all San Rafael, are charged with burglary of a building at 53 Glenaire Drive, San Rafael, on Aug. 18.

Hearing Begins In Child Beating

Preliminary hearing of Eugene A. Boehm, 21, charged in the felony beating of the 16-month-old son of his common-law wife, began this morning in Marin Municipal Court.

The wife, Roberta Marie Buckley, 21, of 70 Lucky Drive, Greenbrae, has been subpoenaed to testify at a hearing which opened before Judge Thomas F. Keating in Marin Superior Court shortly before noon on a district attorney's motion to order her to answer questions and grant her immunity.

Her attorney, Charles L. Convis, said at noon that she was present in the court house for the hearing.

Mrs. Buckley faces a felony charge of failure to report beatings which resulted in the death of her son, Timothy Wayne Buckley. The motion, filed by Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Dufficy, would force her to answer questions of her relationship with Boehm, about possible mistreatment of the child by Boehm, and if she knows of mistreatmen of the boy by Michael Todd, 21, who shared the Lucky Drive residence with Mrs. Buckley, her son, and Boehm.

Todd has not been charged in the beatings or death.

Last proposed question is about the whereabouts of the victim during the last month of his life.

First witness to testify in today's preliminary hearing held before Judge Leonard A. Thomas, was Dr. Arthur Albin, 599 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae. He declared he operated on the child's brain after it was brought to Marin General Hospital, and there was sufficient evidence of fresh bleeding from head wounds to have resulted in the death.

The physician said he didn't determine what instrument or means was used to inflict the child's head wounds, but said under questioning by Robert I. Conn, attorney representing Boehm, that they could have been inflicted by blows from a hand or dull instrument.

If Mrs. Buckley is ordered to answer questions, she is expected to testify during the hearing later today.

Poll Indicates Brown Narrows Reagan Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has narrowed a gap in his bid for reelection but still trails Republican Ronald Regan, the California Poll reported today.

Mervil D. Field said a statewide survey of voters just completed showed Regan led Brown by 3 percentage points, compared to a 15-point difference following the June primaries.

Field said Brown's significant gains were due to a shift by Democrats, particularly among those who supported Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty in the Democratic primary.

A cross-section of voters showed Reagan favored by 46 per cent, Brown by 43 per cent, with 11 per cent undecided. In mid-June, Reagan was favored by 52 per cent, Brown 37 per cent, with 1 per cent undecided.

Brown's gains came in both sections of the state. In Northern California, he moved from a 10 point deficit to a 2 point lead. In Southern California, he cut Reagan's lead from 17 percentage points to 7.

Four small, frightened Novato children were taken from their home last night by police and placed in a child care home after their mother failed to return.

The children, ranging in age from 8 to 3, became frightened about 10:15 p.m. and called Mrs. Renee Ruth Kesler of 1113 Second Street, Novato, a former neighbor at 589 Fernando Drive.

Mrs. Kesler told police that their mother, Phyllis Murray May, 27, often left the children at night.

Police took the four, Bobbee Lynn, 8, Sherie Ana, 7, Fredrick Albert, 4, and Ruth Corine, 3, to a child receiving home. They said they had not heard from the mother this morning.

Rings Stolen As Owner Showers

An 11-year-old San Rafael boy reported to police Tuesday that four youths entered his house while he was showering and stole three rings worth $12 and a pack of cigarettes.

Kenneth D. Brown of 9 Laurel Place said the rings were taken from his dresser.

Two witnesses reported seeing three boys leaving the house with a tall, blonde girl.

Sec. of Interior Stuart L. Udall will be honored at an after-dinner reception in San Rafael at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 13.

Co-chairmen Ruth Lederman of Kentfield and Floyd Kops of Belvedere announced that the reception will be held at the home of Judge and Mrs. Samuel W. Gardiner, 30 Fairhills Drive, San Rafael.

Proceeds from the $25-per-couple reception will go to the Democratic Committee To Re-Elect Governor Brown. Judge Gardiner's son-in-law, attorney Robert Birkie, is finance chairman for the committee.

"There will be dessert and dancing around the pool," Mrs. Lederman announced.

Hub City Seeks Program Leaders

The San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Department is seeking part-time recreation leaders and instructors for expanded Fall and Winter programs.

Instructors are needed for bridge, fencing, tennis archery, social dancing, vocal and instrumental music, needlework, story telling, model building, painting, puppetry, photography, gymnastics, and other areas of recreation.

Prediction Is Rafferty Will Endorse Reagan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Speculation stirred today in the Capitol over which gubernatorial candidate will draw the backing of Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction.

Yesterday, the chairman of the Assembly Education Committee predicted Rafferty would give his support to Republican Ronald Reagan over Democratic Gov. Brown. Rafferty is a Republican, but his job is nonpartisan.

Assemblyman Charles B. Garrigus, D-Reedley, cited a bulletin put out by Californians for Quality Unified Education, which opposes the current strong state program pushing unification of school districts.

The bulletin reported that Reagan had said he supports Rafferty's positions and would accept his recommendations in education if elected.

Rafferty confirmed it, saying Reagan "did tell me that and told me a year ago." But, he added, "Mr. Reagan receives the same treatment from me as all other candidates."

Garrigus said "it would seem an understanding between the two men would have to have been reached and Dr. Rafferty would have no alternative than to support Mr. Reagan."

Rafferty has called a news conference in Los Angeles next week to reveal the texts of letters to Brown and Reagan demanding their positions on various issues, specifically the unrest at the University of California Berkeley campus.

He said that he would announce his support for a candidate the following week after replies are received. Democratic sources in the Capitol speculated that the only real question is whether Rafferty will back Reagan or stay neutral.

Third Trip To Death Row For Killer

Donald Floyd Ketchel, 28, was returned today to San Quentin's Death Row after a second trial in Los Angeles for the murder of a policeman.

Ketchel killed the policeman June 9, 1961. He won a new penalty trial in June, 1963, but was sentenced again to death in the gas chamber. In March of this year he won an entirely new trial, which again found him guilty of first degree murder.

His third trip to Death Row brings the count of condemned men at the prison to 60.

Sixty new trials have been granted death row inmates since January, 1963. Of these, about half have reduced penalties to life imprisonment. Only one inmate was freed after re-trial.

Teen Attacked At Corte Madera Shops

Edward D. Crisp of 15 Seminole Avenue, Corte Madera, told Corte Madera police that two boys attacked his son, Thomas A. Crisp, 14, yesterday afternoon in the Corte Madera shopping center.

The boy identified one of the two who knocked him down and kicked him, according to police.

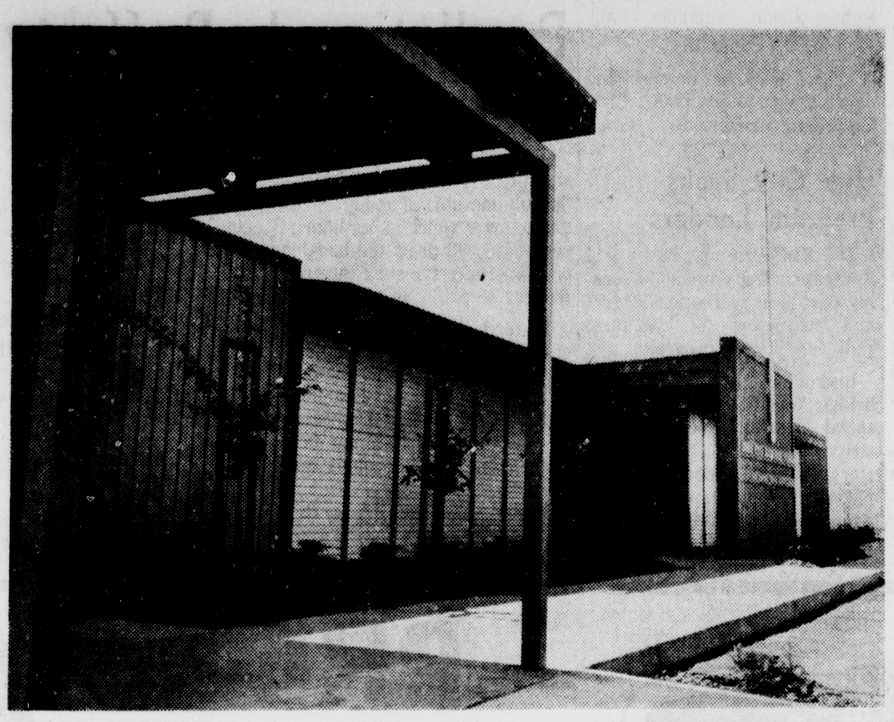
MOSTLY COMPLETED—Although the new Hamilton School at Hamilton Air Force Base will not be complete until next month, most pupils will begin classes there when the school year opens Sept. 12. Others will meet temporarily in portable buildings or rented rooms nearby.



OPENS EARLY—First new school to open this fall will be Bahia Vista School in the San Rafael canal area —because San Rafael schools open next Monday, a week earlier than most. (Independent-Journal photos)

Back To New School Days In Marin

Many Schools Adding Fresh Facilities Too

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

Horizons of learning in Marin County will widen physically upward and outward this fall as three brand new schools open their doors to welcome 800 students.

And for the first time, many of these children will have room to work and play after months of jostling into temporary portable classrooms.

The new schools are Bahia Vista Elementary School in San Rafael, Redhill intermediate School in San Anselmo, and Hamilton School on the air force base.

In addition, work is completed or in progress to expand seven other schools.

Not all the new schools will be completed by the time students take up their places. At Hamilton, it may be October before the library and office facilities are finished.

The $423,587 Bahia Vista School will have 11 teachers and more than 300 pupils to start. Eventually, the roll is expected to exceed 350.

Most of the children will be transfers from Laurel Dell elementary and intermediate schools. Bahia Vista will also be the new home for the 30 former pupils of San Quentin School.

Money for this project, and improvements to other schools within the San Rafael, Elementary District, is coming from bond issues.

Redhill School at 100 Arbor Drive, San Anselmo, cost $258,700 to construct and will have as its principal Donald Shaw, formerly of the Isabel Cook School.

The initial intake of 220 pupils will have eight classrooms, two science rooms, and a library among the new facilities.

Some of the children will be transfers from Isabel Cook, Wade Thomas and Yolansdale Schools. There will be a re-shuffling of grades among these three schools to take up the slack when the new school opens.

Only 12 classrooms out of 15 at the new elementary school at Hamilton are expected to be ready in time for the first classes Sept. 12.

Supt. James G. Bunker said that although two wings will be completed, there will not be sufficient rooms to house all the 490 children for whom the school was built.

Some 80 pupils may find themselves in rented rooms either on the base or nearby until the construction is finished. Bunker estimated it would be only a few weeks.

New additions to schools in the San Rafael district include a gymnasium and lunchroom at Davidson School, built at a cost of $251,568.

Acting Supt. William C. Jordan also reported $251,568 is being spent at Santa Venetia School on a new gymnasium, library and four classrooms, expected to be ready by the end of October.

Remodeling of the old building at San Rafael High School for administrative offices and classrooms will be going on this year at a cost of $606,506, he added.

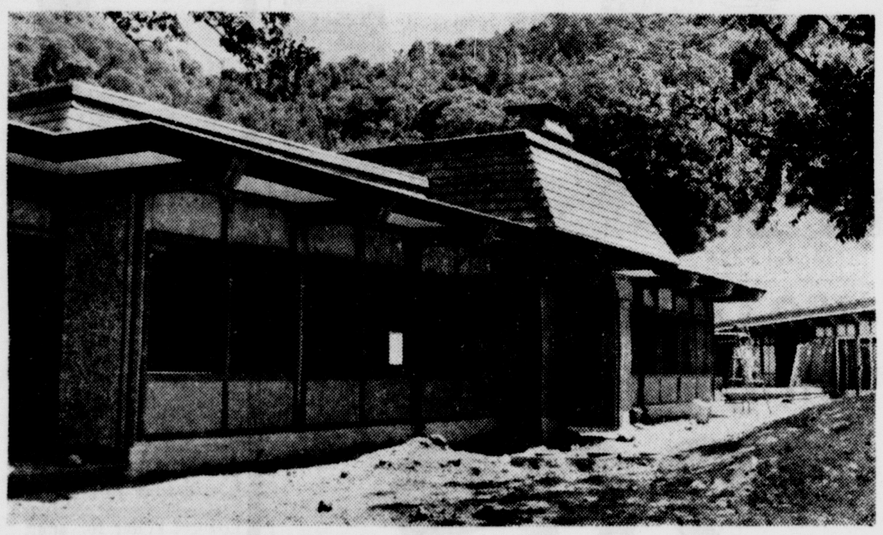
In the planning stage are a new elementary school at Peacock Gap and six additional classrooms at Coleman School.

Improvements to Hidden Valley School in the San Anselmo School District include additional classrooms for children from Sleepy Hollow School and Brookside School — eventually.

Not all rooms will be ready for school opening and many children will continue to be taught in portable units for the first three months. Total construction bill for Hidden Valley additions comes to $219,490.

In the Novato Unified School District, no delay is expected in providing six-classroom additions to Pleasant Valley and Lu Sutton schools. Hill Junior High School will get its art and homemaking rooms on time, but there may bea slight delay in building homemaking rooms and shops at San Jose Junior High School.

At San Jose school, the library, administrative rooms and some of the classrooms are already finished.



NEW SCHOOL FOR NEW YEAR—Redhill School in San Anselmo, providing new facilities for seventh and eighth grades, will be ready for opening Sept. 12, according to Supt. Stephen L. Parodi.

Blood Center Notes Decrease In Donations

The Marin Blood Center at 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael, will be open netx Thursday as well as Wednesday and Friday to compensate for being closed Labor Day.

A sharp decrease in donations during the summer months has created a serious imbalance and the center hopes that reserves can be brought back to the normal level soon. The holiday accident toll may make the situation critical.

The center will be open Thursday from noon to 6 p.m.; normal hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

One Anti-War Demonstrator Gets 30 Days

PORT CHICAGO (AP) — One anti-Viet Nam war demonstrator has been sentenced and 11 others have been granted a joint trial on charges stemming from attempts to stop munitions trucks at the Port Chicago Naval Weapons Station.

Judge Otto Lichti of the Port Chicago Justice Court Tuesday sentenced Norman Potter, 29, of San Francisco to 30 days in the Contra Costa County jail.

Potter was charged with creating a public nuisance and resisting arrest when he allegedly halted an ammunition truck outside the weapons station.

Judge Lichti set Oct. 19 as the trial date for the remaining 11 who asked for a joint trial.

The weapons station is a major staging depot for Viet Nam bound munitions.

Mansfield Presses Troop Cutback In Spite Of LBJ

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Despite strong opposition from President Johnson, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield insisted today the time is now to cut back U.S. forces in Europe.

Mansfield and other Senate Democratic leaders joined Wednesday in proposing a sense-of-Senate resolution calling on Johnson to make a substantial withdrawal of American troops from Europe. Johnson was on the telephone soon afterward to Mansfield.

The Montana Democrat told reporters today Johnson registered his opposition to the proposal, especially at this time —apparently meaning on the eve of a visit to Washington by embattled West German Chancellor Ludwig Earhard.

A later White House statement also objected to the timing of the resolution. West Germany twitches any time there is mention of a reduction of U.S. forces.

But Mansfield said "I don't think any time is a bad time to express the feelings of the Senate on a major matter."

He added that he felt a Senate declaration favoring a pullout of many American troops from the continent would give Johnson "greater flexibility"—more "leeway"—in trying to encourage its NATO partners to stop dragging their feet on their own troop commitments to the alliance.

The resolution did not command full support from all Democratic Senate leaders. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., branded the resolution as "foolish advice" to the President.

Jackson, a member of the Armed Services Committee who recently conducted independent hearings on NATO problems, said in a Senate speech it would be folly for the West to reduce its forces without a parallel withdrawal by Russia.

He said such a move would be tantamount to "throwing away our bargaining position" with the Soviets.

My suggestion for a unilateral cut of American combat forces in Europe, with no quid pro quo from the Communist side, constitutes foolish advice to the President," Jackson said.

"Such a recommendation at this time would confirm the European skeptics in their claims of American unreliability."

Senate Republican Whip Thomas H. Kuchel, Calif., and Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., praised Jackson's speech and endorsed his stand. Both said they considered it highly important that the resolution be sent to a regular committee for full hearings before any Senate action.

Johnson Plans Full Weekend Of Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will observe Labor Day by flying into Michigan and Ohio Monday for four speeches.

The White House announced today Johnson will make appearances in Detroit and Battle Creek, Mich., and Dayton and Lancaster, Ohio.

Also announced were firm plans for a presidential trip Saturday to West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Johnson will fly to Charleston W. Va., go by helicopter to Summersville, to dedicate a dam and reservoir, then fly to the Harrisburg-York airport in Pennsylvania to join a motorcade for a 31-mile drive to Dallastown, which is observing its 100th birthday.

The White House indicated that the Democratic party will defray expenses for Johnson's Labor Day trip. The government will foot the bill Saturday.

Dixie Lawmakers Ready School Segregation Law

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Only House concurrence in major Senate changes stands between Gov. George Wallace and and the legal vehicle that could move him to a confrontation with the federal government.

The Senate, ignoring critics' warnings, passed Wallace's bill to defy federal school integration guidelines in Alabama and sent it to the House yesterday for concurrence in amendments.

Concurrencies expected tomorrow.

The Senate version of the bill, passed 28 - 7, is considerably tougher than the House-passed bill.

It now:

Declares that school desegregation guidelines set forth by the federal department of health education and welfare, are illegal.

Nullifies all existing compliance agreements by city and county school boards in the state and serves notice on the boards that they are henceforth not authorized to enter into such agreements.

Provides for state reimbursement of a part of the federal money which the local boards might lose through failure to abide by the guidelines' requirements.

Creates a governor's commission composed of the chief executive and no more than 160 members appointed by him to carry out the terms of the act and to authorize reimbursement of lost federal funds.

Allows a local board which doesn't want to deal directly with the federal government to turn over its authority to do so to the governor's commission.

De Gaulle Urges U.S. To Get Out

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — French President Charles De Gaulle said today there was no chance of peace negotiations to end the Viet Nam war until the United States agrees to a timetable for the withdrawal of its armed forces.

He told 60,000 cheering Cambodians that, although the time was not yet ripe for a negotiated settlement, "short of the universe rolling toward catastrophe, a political agreement alone could bring back peace."

De Gaulle did not call for withdrawal of American forces as a prelude to negotiations — as North Viet Nam and its Communist supporters have demanded — but said:

"The possibility and even more, the opening of such a vast and difficult negotiation (to end the war) would obviously depend on the decisions and commitments which America would previously have chosen to take and enter into to repatriate its forces at an appropriate and fixed period of time."

No matter how long the war goes on, De Gaulle said, "France holds as certain that it will meet with no military solution."

There was no immediate comment from the State Department in Washington.

De Gaulle conferred for 35 minutes yesterday with Nguyen Thuong, North Viet Nam's chief representative in Cambodia, and sounded him out on Hanoi's views. There was no indication, however, that the call for American agreement to a withdrawal timetable was based on anything the North Vietnamese told him.

De Gaulle's speech in flag-decked Phnom Penh Stadium was the highlight of his three-day state visit to Cambodia, whose chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has been even more critical of the U. S. role in Viet Nam than the French president.

De Gaulle said for the United States to give up "an expedition in faraway lands from the moment it turned to be without benefit or justification, and to favor instead an international arrangement organizing peace and progress in an important area of the world would in no way finally injure its pride, thwart its ideas or jeopardize its interests."

"If this does not happen," he said, "no mediation will offer any prospect of success, and this is why France, for its part, has never envisioned and does not envision proposing any."

From late 1946 until the defeat of its army at Dien Bien Phu in 1954, France waged a bitter battle to maintain its rule over Indochina, including Cambodia, Laos and all of Viet Nam.

Following the military catastrophe, France agreed to negotiations which led to the Geneva agreements of 1954 giving independence to Cambodia, Laos and divided Viet Nam.

While admitting that "it is unbelievable that the American military display should ever be annihilated in the field," De Gaulle said that only an agreement along the lines of the 1954 Geneva accord could settle the war.

"Exactly as for the agreement of 1954," the French president declared, "the object of this one would be to establish and guarantee the neutrality of the peoples of Indochina and their right of self-determination as these people actually are and leaving to each of them full responsibilities for its own affairs.

"The contracting parties, therefore, would be the real powers in action there and, among the other states, at least the five world powers."

The five world powers as defined in the United Nations charter are France, Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union and China. Since France recognizes Communist China, De Gaulle apparently included that government among the five.

De Gaulle praised Cambodia for maintaining a neutral position in Southeast Asia and told the crowd "that is why your country succeeded in salvaging its body and soul, because it remained master in its own house."

Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. has as its 1966 president John E. Koster.

County School Funds Books Balanced

The Marin County Board of Education's administrative services committee Monday night recommended approval of budget revisions to balance the books for the summer Project Head Start.

Asst. county schools Supt. Robert F. Stannard called it a "routine bookkeeping procedure" to show the expenditure of county schools money and deferred reimbursement of federal funds.

To finance the $26,426 program, which had already been approved by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the county office used portions of its services fund. It has now sent in the accounting and will be reimbursed by the federal government, he said. The project ended last Friday.

In a similar situation, the committee also recommended approval of $48,325 in funds for the summer vocational rehabilitation program, Stannard said.

Youths Absolved In Game Incident

No complaint will be issued against Kirk Robert Busse and Michael Lane Rilla, both 18, and a 17-year-old all arrested for alleged grand theft last Thursday, Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony said yesterday.

He said further investigation absolved them of any theft.

Busse, of 1002 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Rilla of 3 Maple Avenue, and the juvenile, all of Kentfield, were arrested by a sheriff's deputy for allegedly taking a purse belonging to Dorothy S. Soden, 17, of 216 Las Gallinas Avenue, Terra Linda, during a football game at College of Marin.

Anthony said the purse had apparently fallen from the bleacher seat, and was found by the trio, who were examining it for identification.

Soldier's Daughters Get $275,000 For Bad Burns

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The twin eight-year-old daughters of an Army enlisted man were awarded $275,000 in damages yesterday for severe burns received from a sagging military post power line.

Karen Lou and Elga Sue Jauch, daughters of Specialist Five Floyd F. Jauch, grabbed the dropping electric cable near their Presidio of San Francisco home in November, 1963. The Presidio is the home of the Sixth Army.

Karen lost all but two fingers, her left heel was burned, and holes were burned in the front and back of her head. Elga was burned on both legs and both hands.

Federal Judge George B. Harris awarded Karen $200,000 and her sister $75,000. Also, extensive medical treatment still required by the youngsters will be paid by the government, and each girl was granted $50,000 for future psychiatric treatment.

The sad irony of the accident, according to the twins' father, was the move to the house on the Army post.

The Jauchs had only been in the new home for a short while —they moved there from a house in the city because they considered it safer for the girls.

Visiting A Colorado Ranch Highlights Family Vacation

By MOLLY MARIN

Staying on the C Lazy U working ranch near Granby, Colo., was the highlight of a three weeks' vacation for the Jacques Neuvilles of Sausalito and their daughters, Charlotte, 15, and Madeleine 12. It is one of the most interesting ranches in the country with lots of riding and fishing, Mrs. Neuville and the family flew to Denver, where they rented a car and drove to many places all over the state, including the Rocky Mountain National Park, Aspen and the mining towns. Mrs. Neuville was especially impressed with how beautifully even the approaches to the large cities are kept for the Labor Day weekend.

MRS. RICHARD Jessup and her daughter, Katy, 16, are home in Mill Valley from a month-long, 5,000-mile motor tour of Mexico, which they found spectacular. They made the trip with Mrs. Jessup's sister, Mrs. Charles Erickson and her two children of Phoenix, Ariz., and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Milton Smith and her two children of Casa Grande, Ariz. In the middle of the trip the three husbands joined their families for five days in Mexico City. The highlights here were the enjoyable ones of visiting the fabulous new anthropology museum—the most beautiful building she has ever seen, Mrs. Jessup said — and the folklorica dances. They disliked two bullfights intensely. They drove down the Sierra Madre Occidentale route and returned by the Eastern Sierra Madre Orientale, which they found more spectacular because of the high peaks and lush jungles, where orchids overhang the road and fires are seen everywhere at many places where the jungle is being cleared for corn planting. Their favorite spots were San Miguel, Guanajuato, and Patzscuaro. They drove as far south as Acapulco and Taxco.

IT WAS A surprise for their mothers in Marin when Sgt. and Mrs. Michael Foley of Fort Bragg, N.C., arrived on their first wedding anniversary to visit them in person instead of telephoning, as they expected. During their week visit with their parents, Mrs. Marsha Buekema and Mrs. Gertrude Foley, Michael and Carol were extensively entertained. They returned to Fort Bragg, where Michael is stationed, via Fort Worth to attend the North American amateur roller skating championships, as both are competitive skaters.

MRS. CHARLES P. DAVIES (Elizabeth Banning) of Novato is among seven Bay Area members of the American Institute of Interior Designers who was asked to make period room settings for the 200 American paintings from the Metropolitan Museum of Art that are now on display at the De Young Museum in San Francisco. Former Novatan Barton Davis was chairman for the settings for the show which started last week and will continue for six weeks, Mrs. Davies says.

JANET SAWYER'S new home in Belvedere was this year's setting for the birthday celebration which honored her mother, Mrs. Richard Finney; Ralph Noah and Mrs. Edwin Weed on Friday. The honorees have celebrated their birthdays together for more than 15 years. Janet arranged the cocktail party and buffet supper and was assisted by her sister, Pamela Sawyer. Besides those honored, the guests were Mrs. Noah, Mr. Weed, Mr. Finney, Messrs. and Mesdames Russell Keil, James Wilhite, C. M. Kretchmer, Richard M. Sims Jr., Robert Bastian, John Wiley, all of Belvedere and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Niswonger of Atherton, and Chris Sawyer of San Francisco.

Birthday Gift To The Steady Girl Can Get Fellow In Agua Caliente

DEAR HELEN

Most boys wonder what birthday gift to give a steady girl friend. This is a touchy subject.

If you give her perfume, she may believe you think she needs it.

If you give her clothes, she'll figure you don't like the way she dresses.

If you give her jewelry, she'll believe her beauty alone isn't enough for you.

If you give her records, she'll say, "You're just trying to drown me out."

If you give her nothing, you're a tightwad.

So here's my solution: give her balloons. She can't argue about that. Besides, she'll be so busy blowing them up, it will keep her quiet! Which is a relief to everyone.

This is a tip to the guys who need it. Personally I don't.

I gave my steady balloons and she gave me the air.

—LESSON LEARNED

DEAR L.L.:

. . . And since you got the air, you're no longer up in it about what to give a steady for her birthday. The blow-up saved you money.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't understand how anyone can write to you and say they don't know the facts of life because their parents won't tell them. By the time you get to freshman year in high school, if you haven't already got things down pat in family living classes, you read between the lines in magazines. What more do these kids want to know?—S. C.

DEAR S.:

It does seem unbelievable that young people can still remain ignorant in the face of the biggest barrage of sex information in history. But many do, chiefly because they don't understand what they read and are afraid to ask questions.

They have a general knowledge but they aren't at all sure how it applies to them. And here is where fear, experimentation or shame starts.

Let's hope their children won't have this problem.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

This may seem like a dumb question, but I'm sure many girls don't really know the answer — they just pretend to. What is the difference between necking and petting? The girls talk about it and I'm left out of the conversation because I don't want to show my ignorance. The kids would laugh at me if I asked them, and my mother never talks about things like this.—VERY NAIVE

DEAR V. N.:

Necking is just what it says—mainly from the neck up. The only danger in necking—which is light hugging and kissing—is that it can progress and leads to nothing but trouble.

A reputation is one of the few things you can lose and get at the same time.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help You. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Cut Off Even

Freestone peaches are a variety in which the pit comes out easily. The clings, used primarily for commercial canning, must have the pits cut out. Either variety grows in yellow or white, but the most common color is yellow.

Vegetables, Fruits, Meats Plentiful For The Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first shopping weekend of September is here. Summer's vegetables and fruits are still in good supply. Pork is in good supply and in most places, quite reasonably priced.

Ground beef, roasts, and steaks are reported as plentiful in most sections of the nation. Hams and spareribs are the main pork buys.

Broiler-fryers and turkey still remain as bargain protein buys for most areas. Eggs and peanut butter are also budget protein foods.

The plentiful vegetables are carrots, celery, sweet corn, cucumber, onions, green peppers, potatoes, radishes and tomatoes.

Plentiful fruits are apples, bananas, cantaloupes, grapes and pears. Watermelons are still in good supply in many markets.

Butter prices advanced 1 cent the past week in all West Coast markets. Many pork items, however, showed a downward trend. Loins declined 1 to 3 cents a pound in all market.

Canned hams were up 2 to 4 cents in California markets, while most beef items trended downward.

Ready-to-cook poultry prices advanced in almost all markets.

West Coast food shoppers will find plentiful supplies of bananas, grapes, pears, watermelons, carrots, potatoes, onions and tomatoes. In good supply also, are cantaloupes, peaches, corn, lettuce and peppers.

Fish plentifuls are crabmeat, halibut, salmon, shrimp, and rockfish are the fish in good supply.

Easter Seal Group To Begin Fall Program

The adult recreation group of the Easter Seal Society of Marin will resume its activities this fall on Sept. 15 at 620 Mission Ave., San Rafael.

Mrs. Karma Zethraus, teacher of hand weaving at the Center, reports that new members are welcome. Those interested can obtain information from the society.

The Northgate Fair to be held on Sept. 16 and 17 will have representatives from the Easter Seal Adult Recreation demonstrating "art in action." In addition, articles created at the center will be on sale at that time.

Foresters Present Piano For Terrace

When Court Marin 1950 of the Independent Order of Foresters voted last fall to "adopt" the Tuberculosis Terrace of Ross Hospital, neither the Foresters themselves or the patients and staff of the Terrace could have predicted the success.

After the original gift of a pool table and two phonographs were made, an appeal went out to members for recreational supplies. A flood of books, records, yarn, art supplies, games and puzzles resulted and storage became a problem. Fortunately these supplies were accompanied and supplemented by individual gifts which made possible the purchase of a mobile record rack, a portable sewing machine and a ceramics kiln. Cupboards, a blackboard, and five large bulletin boards were also donated by members.

Since many Terrace patients are now encouraged to be mederately active, and to be up and dressed the greater part of each day, laundry for those whose families do not live close is a problem. When the Terrace was given a washing machine for the patients, the Foresters donated a dryer.

AN ALUMINUM umbrella table and eight chairs chosen for their weather resistance were purchased for the patio, as well as enough plastic tubing to renovate two chaises and four chairs already there.

Two Marin artists, Miss Pat Perdue and David Cohn, donated original oil paintings to brighten the Terrace. A small collection of good reproductions is being mounted and readied for hanging. The ultimate aim of this project is to have a large enough library of paintings that patients may choose favorites for their walls, and can vary their selections. In addition the paintings also provide the inspiration needed in many cases to start a patient using paint or crayon himself.

When it was decided to aim toward the purchase of a piano, other sources of income were needed. As a result, a reservation fee was charged for the Forest Frolic, the annual Forester spring dance and buffet. With the funds from this affair it became possible to purchase a new piano just in time to install it in the newly enlarged occupational therapy room. Mrs. James L. Cockburn has offered to spend each Wednesday afternoon at the hospital, playing background music as patients work at crafts and hobbies, answering requests or accompanying community sings. A surprising number of patients are rediscovering former piano skills as their families bring them music from home. The Foresters are hoping that more musicians will volunteer to entertain the patients now that an instrument is available for accompaniment.

THERE IS still a long list of needs on the Terrace, both for material things and for more volunteers to work with the patients. Future plans include the establishment of a large enough fund that a specified amount can be guaranteed the Terrace each month for the purchase of craft supplies, records and books.

Mrs. Lester Bricca and Mrs. Joseph Terchera are working together to organize an auxiliary to the Volunteers, to work on the outside. Members, both men and women, who would like to work with the patients in any way — teaching crafts, setting hair, organizing games, or simply visiting—are needed. But those who would like to help in other ways are urged to contact Mrs. Bricca or Mrs. Terchera also. If women can be found who will take over such things as shopping for the patients, it will free those volunteers who work on the Terrace to devote full time to actual patient service, the chairman said.

Court Marin 1950 is sponsoring a drive to get Foresters members to the Marin Health Department to have tubercular skin tests or chest mini-films, and to urge others to do so.

Miss van Dalen Will Be Bride

Announcement is made of the engagement of Annaclare van Dalen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter van Dalen of Mill Valley to George Stephen Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown of Orange.

The bride-elect was graduated from the Katharine Branson School in Ross and received her degree in English literature in June from Scripps College, Claremont.

The future bridegroom graduated from Orange High School and is a senior at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, where the couple will make their home.

The wedding will take place Sept. 17 at the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley.

'PAINTERS' FOR ART FESTIVAL—Co-chairmen of the Sausalito Art Festival, Michael E. Bry of Sausalito, (left) and William W. Kirsch of San Rafael paint the pylons which were constructed of old panels from past festivals and will serve as a fencing for festival grounds this year. The annual art festival will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday through Monday.

Sausalito Festival's New Look This Week

The annual Sausalito Art Festival Saturday, Sunday and Monday will have a new look this year.

Festival entrants all will be from Marin, while in past years they came from throughout the Bay Area. The show will be in downtown Sausalito instead of on a school playground where it has been in the last few years.

The new layout of the show has been designed by San Rafael architect William W. Kirsch and new panels and booths have been designed by Kirsch and constructed by him and by Michael E. Bry, co-chairmen of the show.

The old panels have been cut up and rebuilt into pylons which will form the see-through fence around the festival grounds, located in a city parking lot on Bridgeway, north of the Bank of America.

Special exhibits planned for the first time will be on architecture of Marin, writers in the county and on graphics work by Chilean artists, provided through the People to People program which Sausalito has with Vina del Mar, Chile.

The festival will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day with entertainment in the afternoons. All media of art will be shown. Purchase awards will be made with the intention of starting a civic art collection for Sausalito.

Members of the committee organizing the festival are Jane Bacher, Mill Valley architectural exhibit; Sonia Pimentel and Marilyn Rosenberg, both of Sausalito, decorations for the grounds; Allen Pimentel of Sausalito, performing arts; Betty de Prado of Mill Valley, registration; Mary Lindheim, Sausalito, jury; David Morris of San Rafael, grounds; Albert Garvey of Fairfax, and George Gooding of Mill Valley, posters and signs.

Atheneum Date

"Tribute to the Atheneum," the last 1966 presentation of the Atheneum Arts Foundation, will be presented at noon Sunday in Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais, not Saturday as reported in error in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

San Francisco Wooing Theater

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce launched a $125,000 drive yesterday to make San Franisco the home of the American Conservatory Theater, a repertory company.

Budget for the ATC's 22-week season would be $700,000, said Melvin Swig, speaking for the chamber.

Of that the National Foundation for the Arts has indicated it will make a $100,000 Grant, the chamber expects another $25,000 from the city's hotel tax and $450,000 from ticket sales.

Chamber President Cyril Magnin said both Chicago and Los Angeles wanted the company which would prefer San Francisco.

Rugs May Muffle Ross Dispute Over Drama

The Marin Shakespeare Festival will try to solve its noise problems with carpeting when it concludes its current season tomorrow with "Julius Caesar" and Saturday with "The Merchant of Venice."

Using rugs loaned by Stuart Decorating Co. of San Francisco, festival officials will cover the stage at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

They hope thus to mollify the Edward R. Bunting family, whose Skyland Avenue home overlooks the center. Bunting has complained often that Shakespeare is coming across too loudly for the comfort of his family. On Aug. 13, the Buntings played rock 'n' roll music on their hi-fi set loudly enough to prompt several angry letters to the Independent-Journal from theatergoers displeased by this mixing of the Bard with the Beatles.

At first the festival officials thought that the use of microphones would cut down the sound from the performances. A sound company told them this would not work but perhaps carpeting would. Tomorrow the tale will be told. Both performances will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Since 1903 a total of 28,000 square miles of the United States has been set aside as National Wildlife Refuges.

Mozart Festival Lists Conductor

Robert Hughes, assistant conductor of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra, will be guest conductor for the chamber orchestra of 20 musicians at the sixth annual Mozart Festival to be presented Sunday by the Bach to Mozart Group.

Starting at 1 p.m. in Stolte Grove near Mill Valley, the festival program will include the Overture from Purcell's "Faerie Queen"; the Cantata "The School of Anacreon" by Dr. Thomas Arne for baritone and orchestra; Haydn's Concerto for trumpet and orchestra; J. S. Bach's Cantata No. 84, "Ich Bin Vergnugt Mit Meinem Glucke" for soprano, oboe, strings and continuo; and Mozart's Divertimento No. 11 in D Major.

Vocal soloists will be soprano Carole Bogard and baritone Edgar Jones.

TO LEAD SYMPHONY—Hugo Rinaldi of San Rafael, director of music for San Rafael City Schools, has been appointed musical director and conductor of the Contra Costa Symphony Orchestra. The symphony, composed of 25 high school performers in Contra Costa County, will give concerts in Pittsburg and will make a tour of the Bay Area next Easter Week.

Tiburon Pub Owner Plans Closing Party

Battered but unbowed from his legal battles, Eric Hodgman said today he'll close the Prince Charlie Inn in Tiburon Sunday.

"I'd not say I've lost a 15-month battle," the bearded and long-haired proprietor said. "I've brought a lot to Tiburon. They're going to miss me."

Before an alcoholic beverage control board hearing last Monday, Hodgman agreed to stop using his beer and wine license by Oct. 27 and transfer it by next March 1. He waived his rights of appeal under the agreement.

The hearing was called on a complaint by the city charging Hodgman with 30 incidents of disturbing the peace, sale of beer to minors and keeping a "disorderly house." Several other criminal and civil actions against him were dropped under the agreement.

Hodgman said he has planned "a gala weekend closing" featuring the Only Alternative and His Other Possibilities, a folk-rock group.

The pub on Tiburon Boulevard may stay open past Sunday "but I won't be affiliated with it," Hodgman said. His plans are "to cool it for a while" and then go into the music promotion business.

The first public restaurant in Egypt opened in 512 B.C. serving only one dish consisting of cereal, wild fowl and onions.

Congressmen Try To Curb Tax Credits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Strong support was building on Capitol Hill today for suspension of a corporate tax credit many economists believe is responsible for the most inflationary aspect of the nation's overheated economy.

Pushing through such a measure—which would amount to a tax increase for most businesses—promised to be a tricky procedure at best, since the administration has frowned on such a move in the past.

"It's going to be hard to do without the President's help," said Senate Democratic Whip Russell B. Long, La., who keeps in close contact with the White House. "But we might get it."

The investment, the brainchild of Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler when he was serving as undersecretary during the Kennedy administration, was designed as a permanent part of U.S. tax policy.

Aimed at stimulating plant growth and modernization, it permits corporations to deduct from their net income tax bill up to 7 per cent of the cost of such capital investments.

the truth of the matter is...

California's Senate says NO irresponsible park expansion

They know irresponsible redwood park proposals would cripple the economy of northern California . . . would raise your taxes because they would slash millions of dollars off California's tax rolls. They know that gigantic acreages of additional parklands are not the answer . . . that California's redwoods will live forever.

The finest old, park-type Redwoods are already protected in 116,000 acres of state parks!

. . . plus 6,000 acres of outstanding groves being held by private owners until they can be acquired as parklands. There are, in fact, more than enough large, park-type redwoods in state parks alone to make a solid row from San Francisco to Washington, D.C. Attendance at these redwood parks has been declining. Less than 2% of their vast acres has been developed for picnic and campsites. Most of the undeveloped parkland is still inaccessible to the general public.

The Redwood Region's forest products industry is good for the area!

It contributes over 70% of the economy in Humboldt County and 90% of Del Norte. Irresponsible park proposals would probably wipe out $13,000,000 a year in payrolls and would shut off the millions of investment dollars going into the forest products industry for expansion programs.

Get the Facts—See for Yourself

Drive through the redwood region. See for yourself the more than 122,000 acres of park-type redwoods now being preserved, both in state parks and private lands. Visit a redwood demonstration forest. Enjoy the 365,000 acres of taxpaying, privately-owned recreation lands open to all the public for all types of outdoor activity, such as hunting, fishing, hiking and picnicking.

Educators' Remoteness Accented By Rafferty's Speech Blackout

Some interesting things happened this week in connection with the appearance of Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, as speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Marin County School Administrators Assn.

In the first place, Rafferty, who has a reputation of being unafraid of controversy, asked the chairman of the meeting not to notify the press in advance that he would be present. The chairman complied.

After the Independent-Journal learned Rafferty had spoken, a second interesting thing occurred. A reporter began calling educators who had attended, to find out something about what Rafferty had said. The first two — one of whom was the chairman — both claimed they could not recall any of his remarks.

Eventually, a story was put together with help of other school administrators who had been present and were not so forgetful or reticent. Some suspicion must remain, however, that the state superintendent must have said something more "controversial" than the matters learned, to induce such lapse of memory among the luncheon guests.

It is no secret that a large majority of school administrators in California have no empathy with the state superintendent. It is also no secret that the California Teachers Assn. four years ago spent a great deal of money to try to elect Ralph Richardson as state superintendent, only to see him lose to Rafferty. Nor is it a secret that this year, the CTA did not even try to run a candidate, leaving Rafferty with only token competition from a group of unknowns in the primary — where he, to no one's surprise, won in a walk.

But two things are rather surprising: (1) That Rafferty, who three months ago was courting headlines in a bid for re-election, this week did not want the press (and through it, the pulic) to know he was talking to Marin County school administrators. (2) That the only administrators who seemed able to remember anything about what he said are among the minority who in general endorse Rafferty's views on education.

This perhaps illustrates again a remoteness from actuality in the education profession. This remoteness affects even so outspoken a man as Superintendent Rafferty, for he apparently imagined that if the newspapers did not send reporters, what he said before a large group of school administrators could be kept secret. In a man of his political experience, this is indeed an astonishing flight from reality.

As to the anti-Rafferty administrators, the remoteness extends beyond their inability to remember what he said. If they did not remember, it was probably because they did't want to — and this indicates their further degree of remoteness.

Max Rafferty has twice won election as state superintendent. He won the first time against a campaign well financed by the teachers association, who had a strong candidate in Ralph Richardson.

Undoubtedly one of the reasons Rafferty won was simply because he was NOT the California Teachers Assn.'s candidate. Many of the people who voted for him four years ago and again this year undoubtedly believed he would help return control of the public schools to the people who pay the bills.

It appears, however, that despite Rafferty's being twice elected, many school administrators refuse to accept the idea that a majority of the voting public prefers what Rafferty stands for to what the CTA stands for. They refuse to face reality.

Maybe something Rafferty said at the luncheon was much more laden with dynamite than anything the reporters could find out from among the roomful of people to whom the state superintendent naively thought he could talk in secret. Nothing those interviewed recalled seemed any more devastating than some of his remarks 10 days earlier to the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco in a very-much "on the record" speech.

At the Commonwealth Club, Rafferty discussed the furore over selection of "Land of the Free" as a state history textbook. Among the things he said was this:

"The main textbook problem is not 'Land of the Free' or any other single book. It is the increasingly prevalent state of mind in our nation and throughout the world that schools and school children exist primarily to push somebody's idea of a worthy cause. They do not.

"Education exists to pursue the truth, no matter where that truth may be or how deeply it may lie hidden."

No deep search is necessary to ascertain the truth that Rafferty was elected state superintendent as an outspoken foe of what is loosely termed "progressive education."

It would seem that school administrators would face this truth by paying attention to what the state superintendent tells them and remembering it — even though they do not agree with it.

California Forest Fire Hazard Acute

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The fire danger is extreme in national forests of California, Regional Forester Charles A. Connaughton said today.

"We are particularly concerned with the approaching Labor Day weekend. Record crowds will be in our national forest recreation areas and this could greatly increase the possibility of carelessly caused fires."

There has been an increase of 51 per cent in the number of fires over last year, and those burned over 136,000 acres, compared to 2,600 acres a year ago.

Private Schools Reopen With Two New Principals

Two out of three Marin private schools will have new headmasters when they re-open for the new school year.

H. Leonard Richardson, former headmaster of Scarborough School in New York state, is the new head of Katharine Branson School, which will open Sept. 14. He succeeds David W. Jackson, who has left to head Sante Fe Preparatory School in New Mexico.

Among foreign students expected at Branson this semester are one from Sweden and two from Hong Kong.

Lawrence W. Robertson, former dean of San Rafael Military Academy, has been promoted to the headmaster's chair at the academy, which opens Sept. 12.

Expansion plans include the use of the former Jewish Community Center building as classrooms for between 50 and 60 seventh and eighth graders.

The center was converted into classrooms after its purchase by the acradamy during last academic year. The former seventh and eighth grade accommodation will be used by high school students.

The Three-R School in San Rafael Meadows will reconvene classes Sept. 12, Principal Joseph N. Heath announced.

Lt. Col. Boyer Retires From Navy

Lt. Col. Richard J. Boyer of 110 Forrest Avenue, Fairfax, has retired from the Army after a 24-year career in which he earned 12 battle stars in World War II and the Korean War.

Boyer was chief of the export division, Western Area Headquarters, Military Traffic Management and Terminal Service at the Oakland Army Base when he retired. He plans to work overseas in the transportation field.

Fall Term Will Open For Some

Summer vacation will end this week for pupils in four Marin County school districts that start classes next Tuesday.

Dixie, Reed and San Rafael elementary and high school districts start on that date, according to the county schools office. Others will start the fall term Sept. 12, except the Tamalpais High School District, which opens its doors a day later.

Because of some special school days besides the eight regular holidays, all districts end the school year on either June 15 or 16. The days of instruction range from 175 to 179.

School districts starting Sept. 12 are Bolinas-Stinson, Fairfax, Kentfield, Laguna, Lagunitas, Larkspur, Lincoln, Mill Valley, Nicasio, Point Reyes, Ross, San Anselmo, Sausalito, Tomales Bay, Union, West Marin, Novato, Tomales High School, and Marin Junior College.

County special education classes will also begin Sept. 12.

Children Steal

Two 10-year-old girls and a 12-year-old boy stole several cartons of supplies from Davidson School Sunday, San Rafael police reported yesterday. At first, the children told their mother they found the school supplies, but later confessed to her that they had taken them from the school.

Teachers Eye Nurses Strategy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) When San Francisco's municipally employed nurses report themselves sick while demanding higher pay they set a pattern for other professional employes, the California Federation of Teachers said yesterday.

Nurses, prevented by the city charter from striking, reported en masse that they were sick during their pay disupte.

The CFA, a 10,000-member organization, commented that "The nurses' strike is an indication of things to come. The strike is a signal to all professional public employes."

New Parks Commission Wants Plans Delayed

The new Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission at its first meeting last night asked the city council to delay its consideration of the proposed downtown plan.

"There are parks involved in the plan," member George McKegney said. The commission voted to ask the council's lands and development committee to hold up discussions until the fledgling commission can get copies and study the plan.

Besides the downtown plan, the commission also asked investigation of the joint park site along Tiburon Boulevard with the city of Belvedere, the waterfront, the railroad right of way, neighborhood parks, and bicycle and walking lanes, McKegney said.

Irving Moulin of 80 Mount Tiburon Road was elected chairman.

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission also:

1. Set its next meeting for Sept. 15 and meetings thereafter for the first Thursday of each month.

2. Turned down an invitation from the San Francisco Zoological Society to designate a "Tiburon Day."

3. Appointed public works Supt. Louis Brunini as commission secretary.

4. Set members' terms for Moulin at one year, Mrs. P. Dunlap Smith Jr. and Robert D. Singer for two years, Mrs. George C. Berticevich for three years, and McKegney for four.

Expelled Nun Dies

HONG KONG (AP) — One of the eight Roman Catholic nuns expelled from Red China died today less than 24 hours after she crossed the border into Hong Kong. Death was attributed to heart failure and strain. She was Sister Eamon, 60, the former Mary O'Sullivan of Cork, Ireland. She collapsed at the border yesterday and was wheeled across in a baggage cart.

Judge Finds Jones Sane In Killing

J. D. Jones, 30, was legally sane the day he killed his ex-wife, Mary L. Jones, a Marin Superior Court judge decided Tuesday night as Jones' two-day sanity hearing came to a close.

Jones, of 79 Cole Drive, Marin City, was found guilty of second-degree murder last Friday.

The second phase of the trial, to determine whether he was sane at the time of the Oct. 20, 1964, murder, opened Monday before substitute Judge Jordan L. Martinelli.

The judge set Sept. 20 for sentencing of Jones, who battered his victim to death with a hammer in an argument over custody of their son, 3-year-old James Davis Jones Jr.

The sainty hearing centered around the testimony of psychiatrists. Jones had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

Five months after the murder, Jones was sent to Atascadero State Hospital, but was returned last March 1 after being declared sane and able to stand trial.

East German Escapes Despite Border Shots

BERLIN (AP)—An East German refugee set off an alarm as he crept through border barbed wire early today but still made it safely into West Berlin, police said.

East German border guards fired three shots at the refugee, a 23-year-old electrician, but missed.

Driver Fined $276

Walace C. Forsythe, 49, of 492 Calle Arboleda, Novato, was fined $276 and placed on six months probation Tuesday in Marin Muincipal Court for drunken driving. He was arrested on Alameda Del Prado by California Highway Patrol Saturday.

ABORTION LAWS REVAMP BACKED

Marin Doctors Contend Liberalization Won't Promote Promiscuity, Immorality

Three Marin doctors agreed today on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" that California's 94-year-old abortion laws should be liberalized to allow "medically indicated" abortions.

The law, which Dr. Leo Wagner, internist, said has been unamended since 1872, allows abortions only if the mother's life will be endangered by letting the pregnancy continue. It does not, pointed out Dr. William Langford, obstetrician and chairman of the abortions and sterility committee of Marin General Hospital, require that an M.D. perform the abortion.

Dr. Wagner saw the question of when life begins as "really the crux of any argument on the morality of abortion. The entry of the soul at conception is a metaphysical, religious concept, which one accepts or discards according to one's religious beliefs. It is not subject to proof or disproof.

"Viewed more objectively, there is a gradual progression which takes place and which culminates in an aware and independent individual."

The other panelist, psychiatrist Dr. Thomas Lowry, denied a listener's contention that abortions cause grave psychological distress for the aborted woman.

"Most feel better for it," he said. "If a person feels guilty when she goes to have an abortion, she will probably feel guilty afterward. In countries where abortions are unrestricted, such as Japan and Denmark, this question does not even occur."

All three disagreed with another listener's position that liberalization of the abortion law would promote promiscuity and moral dissipation. Lowry took the position that the present law, like the prohibition of alcoholic beverages after World War I, is hypocritical because it is blatantly ignored.

'One million American women each year feel it is worth their time and trouble to have an abortion. This is not something you can get on credit. An abortion costs between $200 and $2,000. The American women have voted for legalized abortions, not the doctors," he declared.

Dr. Langford said that to allow abortions in case of rape, incest or danger of defects to mother or child would legalize only one and one-half per cent of the abortions now being performed on California women.

"Those who are getting illegal abortions now would continue to do so. I just want to legalize the medically indicated abortions. My firm conviction is that therapeutic abortions should be a medical question and not a legal one, he declared.

He cited a case on the eastern seaboard where a mentally defective girl was raped by another inmate of the institution she was in. Her father sought a legalized abortion for her and was turned down. The baby has been born and the father has sued the state for "wrongful birth."

"This is very interesting," said Langford. "We've heard of wrongful death suits, but 'wrongful birth' is a new concept."

The program, conducted by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Doctors Set Hospital Site Fund Appeal

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

An appeal for $1,600 to buy land for a hospital in Zacapu, Mexico, was made yesterday by Dr. Richard S. Hahn, creator of Alliance for Health—a private "Peace Corps" dedicated to the health of the Mexicans.

The Belvedere chest surgeon said the money would buy a 10-acre site on a hill above the city for its first community hospital. San Vincente Clinic, operated in Zacapu by Sister Therese, a Roman Catholic nun, already has put up $400 toward purchase of the land.

The land is inexpensive by Marin standards, "but $2,000 is a lot of money there," said Dr. Hahn.

Also needed, he said, is $3,000 for the Alliance to continue until next summer its tuberculosis control project by two Mill Valley doctors, Robert and Susan Massad. They and their daughter, now 10 months old, have been in Zacapu since July.

The Alliance had hoped to raise $16,000 for its second annual program this summer in Zacapu, a town of about 33,000 persons, but got only $10,000. The major donation was $5,000 from the Luke B. Hancock Foundation of Reno, Nev., Dr. Hahn said. Lack of funds forced the Alliance to defer purchase of some expensive equipment, including mass immunization tools.

Donations may be sent to the Alliance at 599 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, (Greenbrae), San Rafael.

Dr. Hahn and his co-workers returned last week from Zacapu, where they immunized 14,000 children between one month and 19 years of age in six weeks.

Conceding that the program is "not really a restful vacation," he noted that each member of the team put in 12 to 14 hours a day. Two teams of about 20 unpaid volunteers spent three weeks each there.

Dr. Hahn also spent evenings with about eight young doctors of Zacapu to plan the community hospital. First, the clinic will be expanded from three to 10 beds by opening a new ward.

The only hospital now in Zacapu serves white collar workers enrolled in Mexico's social security system, Hahn said. The community hospital would serve all residents.

"Each year it seems we've had a taste of success," Dr. Hahn said, "and we've been encouraged to try again."

'IT WON'T HURT' — Tearful infant awaits her turn to be immunized. Her mother, not slated to be a victim, has a good grip on her.

This summer's mass immunization program and X-ray of 3,000 children with positive skin tests "was the first giant step toward eradication of tuberculosis in the community," he predicted. "If the work is continued there is a very good chance to make the tuberculosis control project totally successful.

"In order to be really successful, however, you have to motivate the local people to become totally independent of outside aid. It is a little early to judge our project; we'll have to wait—perhaps a year—to see how successfully the local people will help themselves."

Significant signs that this is happening are local interest in a community hospital, a decision by the eight doctors to donate their services to staff the clinic around the clock, and a $240 donation to the project by the Zacapu Lions Club—a lot of money in Zacapu.

Praising his team members, Dr. Hahn noted that two to three times the number of persons he could take volunteered for the project. "I'm impressed with the response here, but not surprised. People in this country have no trouble digging the concept that if people need help, we're there to help. This kind of ethic is not very prevalent around the world," he said.

The volunteers were housed and fed by people in Zacapu, citing their "overwhelming hospitality," Dr. Hahn said. "We had to fight from being fed too much."

Positive skin tests, indicating a former infection of tuberculosis, perhaps still active, resulted from about 8.5 per cent of all tests, Dr. Hahn said. Thirty active cases were discovered. In Marin, less than one per cent of children in the same age group would show a positive reaction, he said.

ZAP! — Nurses inject tuberculosis vaccine with air jet, eliminating sterilization problems and chance of infection. Each child received a trinket or balloon.

In a Tarascan Indian village about 40 miles from Zacapu, 28 per cent of the children had positive reactions to the skin test. The next day they walked all the way to the clinic in Zacapu for X-rays.

Members of the first team in July were Sue Denser of Sausalito, X-ray technician; Dr. Michael J. Franzblau of Terra Linda; Dr. Thomas L. Grayson of Larkspur; Dr. Merall Roth of Greenbrae; Barbara Kahn of Greenbrae, interpreter; Mrs. Marie Hensler of Ross and Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Oakland, nurses; Mandy Outten of Tiburon; Bruce Pike of Ross and Mrs. Merall Roth and her three sosn, Robert, William and Thomas, clerical workers.

Members of the second team, which worked in August, were: Dr. Hahn; Dr. Theodore D. Picard Bids Farewell To Teletypes

The best friend several hundred teletype machines ever had retired yesterday after 44 years with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Maurice H. Picard of San Rafael has installed and maintained almost 300 of the noisy, complicated gadgets throughout the county. He was especially well-known at the Independent-Journal, where he kept newsroom teletypes in repair at all hours of the day and night. Other major "customers" were police departments, stock brokers and military bases.

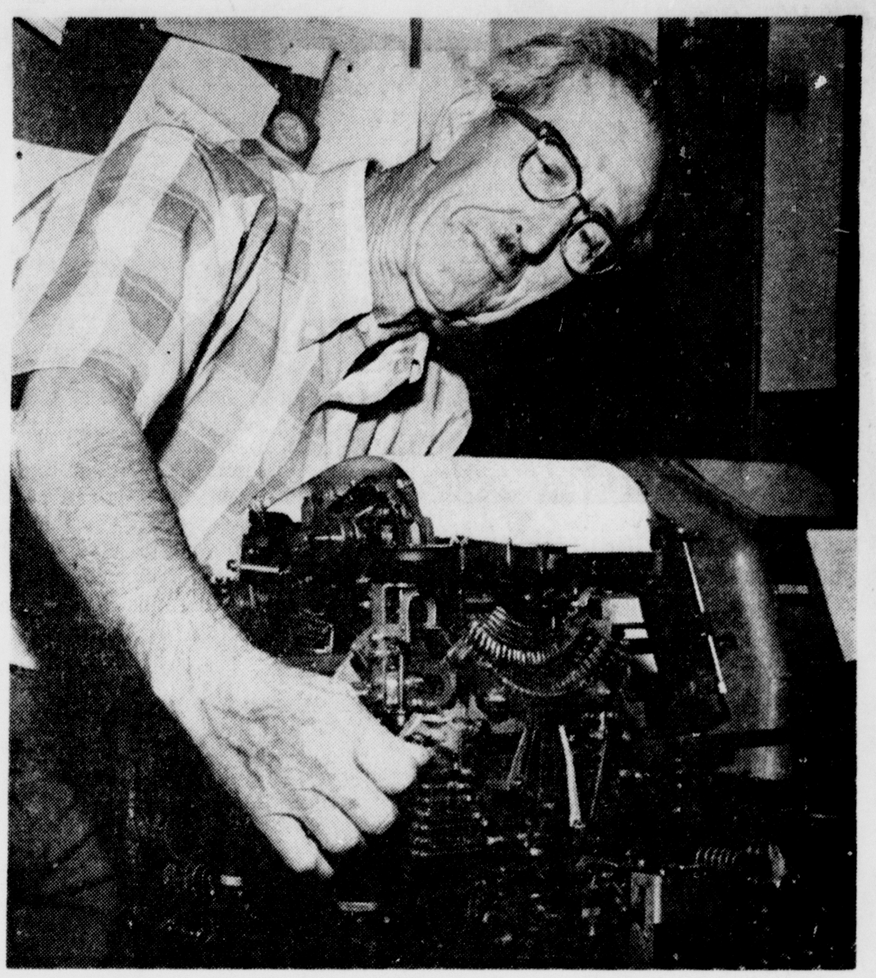
"I don't think the folks at the paper would mind me saying that I know more about their communications than they do," he said today. "Over the years I have been in and out of the Independent-Journal's offices at least 1,000 times, and I have enjoyed every second of it."

Picard, 65, started his long career with the telephone company in 1922 in San Francisco as a switchboard apprentice.

A resident of Marin since 1923, he had to wait until 1946 to be transferred to the company's San Rafael office. "We were a lot smaller operation in those days," he recalled, "things were much more intimate. There were a lot less people, and we were just like a big happy family."

Married 42 years, he and his wife, Ida, live at 200 H Street. Their two children, Maurice H. Picard Jr. and Mrs. Joan Pedroli live in San Rafael. Each has two sons.

Their son works in the company's chief engineer's department in San Francisco.



LAST LOOK — Maurice H. Picard said goodbye in his own way to one of the Independent-Journal's news teletypes as he retired from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. after 44 years of switchboard installation and teletype repair. (Independent-Journal photo)

Gymnasium Work

The base procurement office at Hamilton Air Force Base today called for bids to alter the recreational gymnasium at the base, to be opened at 2 p.m., Sept. 8 at the procurement office at Hamilton.

Sanitary District Tax Rate Drops

The tax rate of Corte Madera Sanitary District this year will be $1.18 per $100 assessed valuation, down two cents from last year's $1.20 rate, according to a district spokesman.

The board at its last meeting set the operational tax rate at 89 cents, and the county has since set the bond interest rate at 29 cents. Assessed valuation in the district this year is $22,404,010, up 4.54 per cent from last year.

The district board will hear a report on the tax rate and assessed valuation at its meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the district office. The board will also hear a report on the progress of its application for $71,000 in federal funds for installation of 2,300 feet of 18-inch sewer line on Paradise Drive.

Tires, Tools Taken

Tires and tools valued at about $200 were stolen from the Mohawk service station at 3050 Bridgeway, Sausalito, during the night, owner Jerry Cooper told police yesterday. The station was entered after burglars broke a window and cut a screen. Ten or 12 tires were reported taken.

Gun Shot Blacks Out Portions Of Novato

It was a dark, cool morning in Novato and many residents in the western portion of the city awoke more refreshed than usual when their alarms went off, only to arrive at work about 40 minutes late.

Some sharpshooter shot off insulators and a wire on the 60-kilovolt circuit by Stafford Dam, shutting off the electricity at 12:36 a.m. to homes in San Marin, Pleasant Valley and West Novato, according to Lee Wise, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. manager in Novato. Service was restored at 11:19 a.m., Wise said.

More Vandals Hit Fernwood Cemetery

A black marble gravestone, stolen from a grave in Fernwood Cemetery in Tennessee Valley, was found yesterday afternoon in Mill Valley's Old Mill Park.

The marker was from the grave of Mrs. Esther W. Domergue, and was engraved with her name and the dates 1888-1946. She was the wife of Jack C. Domergue, who lives at 55 Hillside Avenue, Mill Valley.

Police Sgt. Keith Cramer discovered the stone at 5:25 p.m. and notified the dead woman's nephew, Albert T. Domergue of 323 Pine Street, Sausalito, who said ne would retrieve the headstone.

Vandalism at the unattended Fernwood Cemetery has occurred over the past several years, the most recent being the opening of the grave of C. C. Bettencourt last April.

Lamenting the vandalism, Domergue said: "My grandmother's grave was the first grave in that cemetery."

Larkspur Teachers Set Conference

Teachers in Larkspur School District will meet with district administrators and community leaders in a three-day pre-school conference starting next Tuesday.

Highlight of the conference will be a panel discussion on "How a lay panel feels about the endeavors of the teaching profession," Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at San Clemente School. Speakers will be Jack Craemer, editor of the Independent-Journal; Rev. Frank Hamilton of Redwoods Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Elizabeth McClintock, president of the Ross Valley Council of Parents and Teachers; George Scott, president of the Building Trades Council, and Charles Hunter, manager of the Larkspur Bank of America.

Observant Eye Leads To Stolen Truck

The sharp eye of a friend led yesterday to recovery of Ray Hathaway's stolen pickup truck.

James Donald Roar, 35, of Rohnert Park, told Novato police he saw a 1954 Dodge pickup truck at a service station at Highway 101 and Grant Avenue which he recognized as that stolen Saturday in Petaluma from his friend, Hathaway, a Santa Rosa resident.

As police approached the station, the truck sped away. They pursued and stopped it.

Inside, police found four hypodermic syringes. They said the driver, Douglas Hale, 21, of Petaluma, also had four stolen credit cards in his possession. Hale was booked in Marin County Jail on a charge of auto theft, with bail set at $1,100.

Brokers Remove For Sale Signs In Mill Valley

More than 90 per cent of the real estate broker's "for sale" signs erected in Mill Valley before the city prohibited them have been removed, City Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon said today.

Police have instructions to remove any that still remain.

The ordinance does not apply to signs put up by owners on private property.

Eighteen businessmen out of 24 who have rooftop signs in violation with the ordinance have replied to the city's request that the signs come down. Of these, nine said they will comply, Bragdon reported. The other nine have questions of hardship or questions concerning previous city actions which call for further investigation.

Bragdon termed the businessmen's response "very heartening." The ordinance became effective Aug. 4.

No Action On Clausen's Bill For Seashore

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The House Interior Committee met today but took no action on Rep. Don H. Clausen's bill asking for a $30.5 million appropriation for land acquisition at Point Reyes National Seashore.

An identical bill by Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel was cut last week to $4 million by the Senate Interior Committee.

Congressman Clausen told the House Committee he would support the $4 million appropriation but would prefer to have the full $30.5 million approved.

The House Committee postponed further hearings on the bill until next week to hear from George Hartzog, director of the National Park Service.

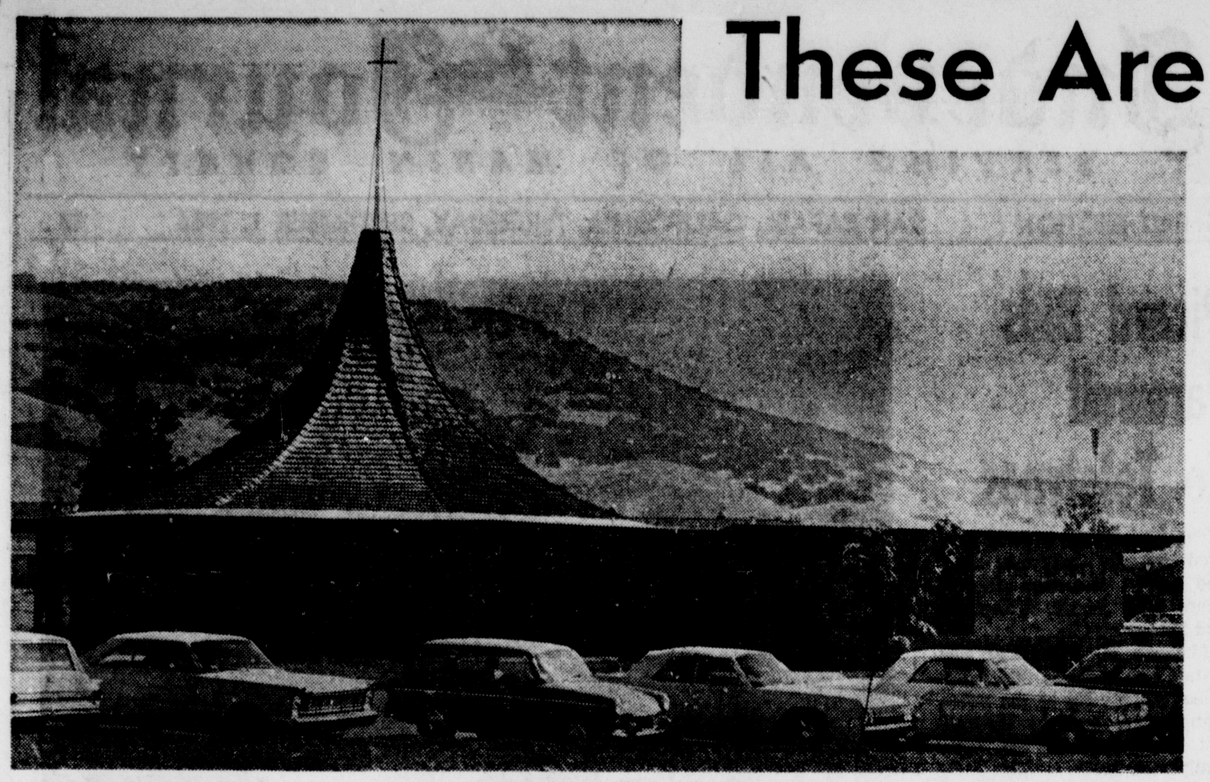
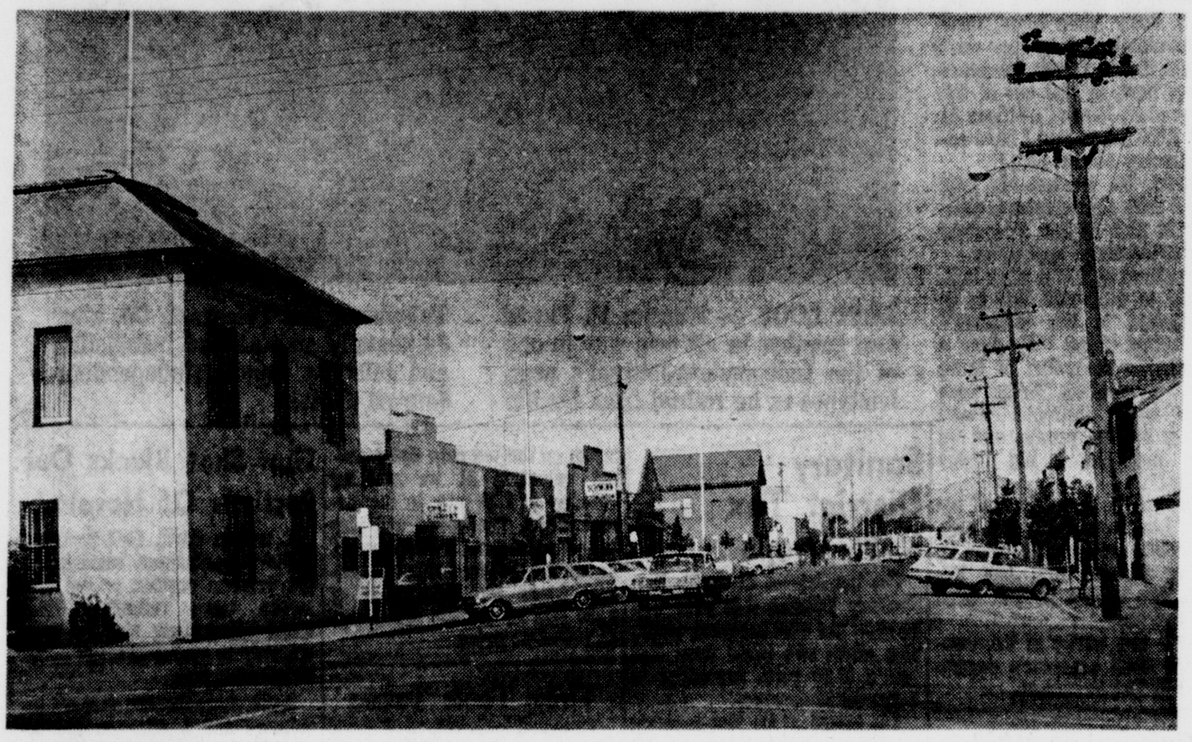
These Are Glimpses Of Novato

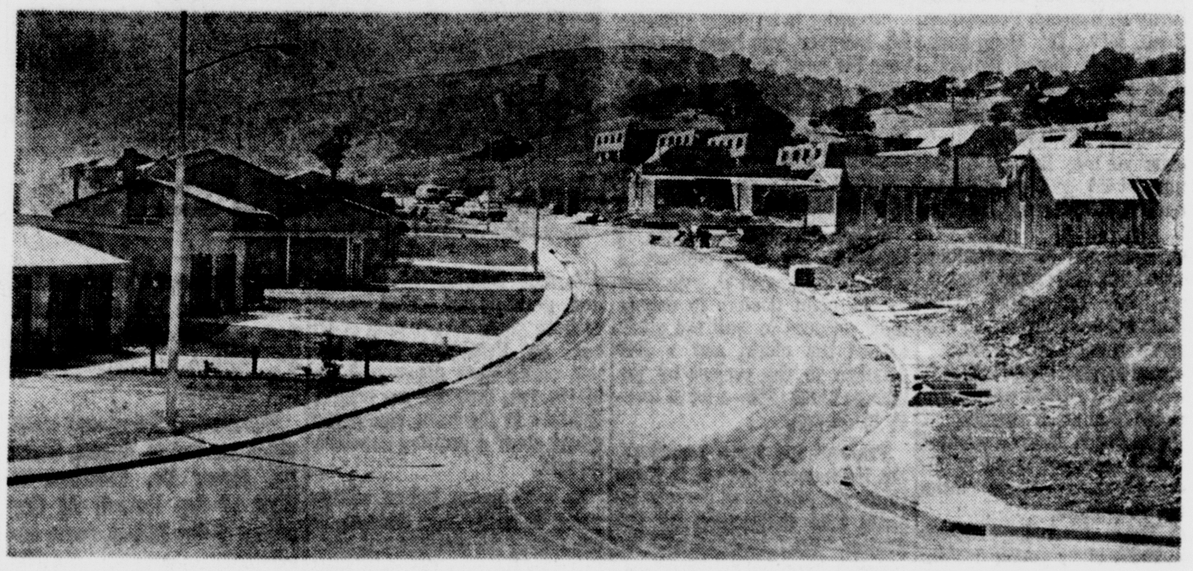


THE CROSS AND THE HILLS—Novato is many things, from churches to used car lots, homes to playgrounds to bustling business districts. Among the newest of the churches is All Saints Lutheran, at the entrance to San Marin. Its spire contrasts with the hills which are visible in almost any direction in Novato.

SUNDAY MORNING — Dozing in the sun are the old Northwestern Pacific station on Grant Avenue, a few buses waiting for Monday's commute rush, and some youngsters' bikes. In right background is a reminder of Novato residents' active political life—the flatiron building housing the American Opinion Library.



TRADITIONAL WESTERN—Beyond the Druids Hall at the east end of Grant Street lie the old false-front buildings typical of many a Western town in earlier years. They house a church, bicycle shop, restaurant and bar, furniture stores and others essential to the community's life.



ALWAYS GROWING—Among the largest recent developments in Novato is San Marin, typified by these new homes on the rolling hillsides of northwestern Novato.

ULTRAMODERN — The new McGillicuddy Building at Fourth Street and Grant Avenue houses a bank, title company, attorneys' offices and other commerce in a massive yet airy beamed structure that is now on Novato's skyline.

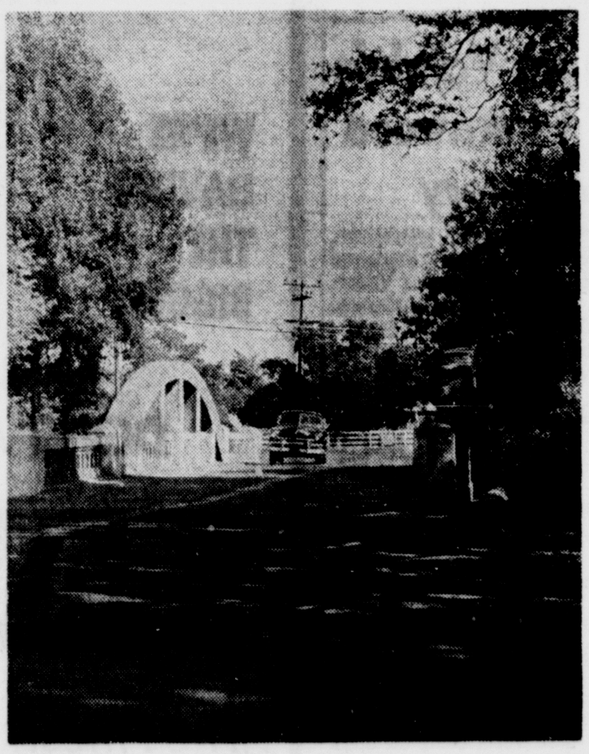
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY



OLD SPAN—The concrete arches of the Novato Creek bridge on Novato Boulevard are a familiar sight to thousands of commuters every day.

CIVIC, CULTURAL HEADQUARTERS—The Community House is a focal point for city council meetings, little theater, and many other public gatherings. It is in line for a $9,000 renovation job approved by the council. Built in 1923 by the Novato Presbyterian Church, it later was headquarters for the Novato Community Club.

BLACK POINT—A favorite spot not only for Novatans but for all Marin is the free, county-maintained boat launching ramp in the shadow of the Highway 37 bridge on the Petaluma River (left photo).

LONG-LIVED TREES — Several blocks of Monterey Pines and other large trees still line Novato Boulevard, shading some of the city's oldest homes. (Independent-Journal photos by Theron A. Newell and Jeff Greer)

Texas Farm Hands Angry At Governor

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (AP) — Gov. John B. Connally warmly hugged Rio Grande Valley farm wage marchers then turned down cold their plea for a special legislative session to pass a $1.25 minimum wage law.

Connally's move — driving out yesterday to meet the marchers who were walking 400 miles to see him — was sudden and dramatic.

The marchers were awed and nervous, at first. Some even rehearsed what they would say to him after they learned he was on the way.

SMILES FADE

But after the governor rejected the special session, and told them he would not see them at the end of their long hike in Austin Labor Day, the smiles, hugs and handshakes turned to rude shouts.

The chant — "Viva Connally!" —stopped, and some of the marchers picked up the cry, "Viva la huelga (the strike)"! "$1.25 an hour!" and "on to Washington!".

And as he walked away from the meeting in the hot sun, Texas AFL-CIO President H. S. Brown promised labor's full support to the march, which began July 4 in Rio Grande City, Tex., just across the border from Mexico.

"I don't think the problem was solved by this meeting," said Brown, who listened but didn't talk as Connally spoke to the leaders of the march — Eugene Nelson, an organizer for the National Farm Workers Association, and the Revs. James Novarro and Antonio Gonzales, both of Houston.

MARCHERS, RIOTS

Connally said he was worried Gen. Waggoner Carr, Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, and House Speaker Ben Barnes, walked into the midst of the marchers alongside Interstate 35 just outside New Braunfels, about 45 miles from Austin.

Connally said he was worried because marchers in other parts of the nation had caused "riots, bloodshed, loss of life and property."

"You don't need a march to see me," he added. "The door of my office is open and was open July 4."

The 40-50 marchers, mostly Mexican-American field hands who say they make from 30 cents to $1 an hour, have been orderly since they set out on foot for Austin.

"While we were pleased that Governor Connally, Attorney General Carr and speaker of the House Ben Barnes came to visit with valley farm marchers, their statements did not, however, alleviate the problems of Texas workers who are living at a poverty level without any protection of the law," said a statement by the march leaders.

It added, "They said nothing that would even indicate their support of the problems."

Hormones Can Make Midgets Grow Normally

By JUDITH RANDAL
(Advance News Service)

BAR HARBOR, Maine — If Tom Thumb's doctor had been Victor A. McKusick, the famous P. T. Barnum midget might have grown to normal size.

McKusick, a rangy six footer, is a physician - geneticist at Johns Hopkins University Medical School at Baltimore. He and two colleagues recently discovered that midgets like Tom Thumb lack the hormone produced by the pituitary gland that stimulates childhood growth. Apart from this inherited defect, the geneticist says, there is nothing wrong with them at all.

Fortunately for today's midgets, this hormone-known to scientists as GSH—can be isolated from he pituitaries of cadavers and given to affected children to make them grow.

The only difficulty is that it takes the hormone from one body a day to do the job. Once the treatment must continue for five or six years, GSH is in short supply.

The treatment works only during childhood growth period. It does not help adult midgets to grow.

Dr. McKusick hopes that people will give their glands to this cause in their wills, just as many now will their eyes to hospitals. A National Pituitary Agency has been established at Johns Hopkins to meet this need.

A child born with this disorder may have parents who are themselves midgets, but this is not always the case. The defect is inherited as a recessive trait. This means that the parents may be of normal height, but harbor a defective gene. If abnormal genes from the father and mother meet when the baby is conceived, the child will lack the hormone that enables it to grow normally.

Such infants are not undersized at birth. Apparently, the hormone isn't switched on till after the stork arrives.

Reporting here at a genetics course for doctors, sponsored by the March of Dimes and given jointly by the Jackson Laboratory and Johns Hopkins, Dr. McKusick said that not all people of short stature have the same inherited defect.

Some dwarfs, for example, lack several of the hormones the pituitary produces instead of just one. These people too, he added, can often be helped by replacement therapy.

Dr. McKusick guesses that there are probably several hundred children in the United States who will not grow unless treated.

He is working with the Little People of America, an organization whose members are under 4 feet 10 inches, to find as many midgets as he can. They will be given chemical tests to see what hormones they lack.

Canadian Ships Fight Pollution In Great Lakes

TORONTO, Canada (SS) — A three-ship Canadian "navy" has been launched to fight water pollution in the Great Lakes.

The fleet's job is to assist in tabulating the industrial, domestic and surface pollution from Ontario, and to check the effect of these discharges on the Lakes.

The 65-foot Lac Vancouver is plying Lake Ontaria, the 41-foot Sparks operates on Lake Erie and the 30-foot Pelican covers the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers, with side trips along the Lake Huron shore.

The ships will collect samples from predetermined points or stations on the lakes, make preliminary analyses on them, including tests for dissolved oxygen, temperature, or acidity and alkalinity.

Samples are taken by a device capable of collecting water from any specific depth. In deeper water a sample is taken five feet below the surface, five feet from the bottom and half way in between.

Results of the shipboard tests are entered on a special deck sheet and at day's end the boats are met at port by drivers who take samples to special shore labs of the Ontario Water Resources Commission for further chemical and bacteriological analyses. The results of the tests will be fed into a computer for further examination.

Survey operations are scheduled to end in October, but will be resumed next spring. Great Lakes sampling is an extension of the commission's regular water monitoring program which has been in operation for several years.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Belief That Bromide Compound Use Is Harmless Not So Sound

VAN DELLEN

In the last 30 years the bromide compounds have taken a back seat for their newer competitors, the barbiturates. Bromides have not been forgotten, however, as there are more than 200 medicines on the market containing this product. They still are used mainly as sedatives and for the treatment of a variety of nervous disorders. The new law dealing with drug abuse also will increase the use of these products.

Unlike the barbiturates, the sale of bromides is not regulated by law and many believe, therefore, that the older chemical chemical is harmless and can be used with impunity. This is not so, because bromides are habit forming, and in past years we have seen many instances of their abuse.

BROMIDE INTOXICATION (bromism) continues to occur. Occasionally the diagnosis escapes detection because the variable and subtle symptoms resemble the condition for which the medicine is being taken. Most users suffer from nervous or mental disturbances, and the early manifestations of bromide intoxication consist of mental confusion, irritability, slurred speech, dizziness, tremors, early fatigue, headache, lack of appetite, and loss of memory.

When these manifestations arise, the original disorder is likely to be blamed and the dosage of the drug doubled. Then signs of poisoning increase and, before long, confusion becomes disorientation with hallucinations and delusions. Many act as though drunk, with a staggering gait, stupid expression, dry mouth, and tremors of the lips, tongue and fingers. On talking, words are slurred and sometimes there is a rash that looks like acne and often is mistaken for it.

OVERDOSAGE can be determined by testing the blood for its bromide content. Figures of 250 or more are close to the poisoning level. But shortly after the drug is discontinued, signs of intoxication are likely to vanish. The good results are enhanced by taking extra quantities of table salt and large amounts of water. The chloride in the salt replaces the bromide, which in turn is excreted by the kidneys. In severe cases of bromism, dialysis by means of an artificial kidney removes the bromide ions.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

STILLBIRTHS

Mrs. N. writes: What is the usual cause of stillbirths?

REPLY

Among the numerous causes are lack of oxygen because of compression of the umbilical cord or of the brain; acute infections in the mother, especially if combined with high temperature; syphilis; tuberculosis; uremia, and the toxemias of pregnancy.

SPOTS ON NECK

W. M. writes: All my life I've gotten red spots on my neck when angered or upset. My skin is fair and this is very embarrassing. Can anything be done to control this condition?

REPLY

Avoid situations that lead to anger, stress or embarrassment.

THROAT LESION

L. M. writes: Is surgery absolutely necessary for a benign tumor in the throat?

REPLY

No, provided you are positive that it is an innocent tumor and the lesion is not blocking the throat.

Man Must Learn Much More To Exploit Sea

By SCIENCE SERVICE

MOSCOW—Man is capable of using up the resources of the ocean just as he is those of the land, and if he is going to exploit them intelligently, he has a lot to learn.

A rough picture of one marine food chain shows that 10,000 pounds of microscopic plants (phytoplankton) are converted into 1,000 pounds of small drifting animal life (zooplankton). They continue the chain by becoming 100 pounds of herring, which become 10 pounds of baby tuna, which finally become a single pound of adult tuna.

The efficiency ratio of this process is 10,000 to one. Other than that, knowledge is sketchy, and although we know the quantities of plant life and the resulting amount of fish, there is much that needs to be filled in about the stages in between.

"The old descriptive methods are insufficient for studying the biological resources of the ocean," said Soviet biologist Dr. M. E. Vinogradov of the Institute of Oceanology in Moscow.

The kind of information presently available is simply not complete enough to guide economical utilization of the ocean, but newer mathematical research techniques are already in use in the USSR, he told the Second International Oceanographic Congress here.

The general outlook at the moment is pessimistic. The world's annual fish catch went up from 23 million to 46 million tons between 1953 and 1963 and is now estimated at 50 million tons, but scientists do not expect it to double every decade indefinitely. Catches will probably level off by the turn of the century. The population will not.

Most of today's principal fishing grounds are set at top capacity and future increases will have to come from the exploitation of newly studied upwelling areas where nutrients are brought to the surface in vast quantities. One zone in the Peru Current, exploited less than 10 years ago, already brings in its top limit of nine million tons of anchovies, which are processed into fish meal to feed livestock.

Dr. David Cushing of the Lowestoft Fisheries Laboratory in England described an experiment in Scotland where baby plaice (European flounder weighing eight pounds or more when grown) are being reared within a fjord walled off by a lock. Since their mortality rate in nature is 99.9 per cent, it is hoped this breeding experiment in controlled waters will increase their survival.

Prof. T. S. Rass of the Moscow Institute of Oceanology reported experiments in acclimatizing fish to new regions, such as moving tropical milkfish from waters west of Mexico to areas off Central America.

All in all, however, the future of commercial fish populations seems limited. The biologists agree that the combination of heavy fishing with modern, highly developed technical gear and unfavorable climatic conditions can bring about the exhaustion of a species within just a few years.

New Technique Avoids Surgery

WASHINGTON (SS)—The use of rubber bands to remove hemorrhoids in a doctor's office could be a special advantage with the expected shortage of hospital beds for Medicare patients.

Dr. Eugene P. Salvati of Plainfield, N. J., told a meeting of the American Proctologic Society in Cleveland that 97 per cent of the 490 patients he had treated were over 40 years of age and that it was to be expected that the hemorrhoid problem will become much greater in the future with more geriatric patients.

The rubber band method can often be used where surgery is too drastic and injections too temporary.

The originator of the method, Dr. Paul C. Blaisdell of Pasadena, reviewed 10 years of successful experience with the simplified technique in the American Journal of Proctology, official publication of the International Academy of Proctology.

Dr. James Barron of Detroit, Mich., has used the method on 1,500 patients since he improved the original technique.

Kuchel Asks Halt Redwood Spite Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson was urged yesterday to call upon a private lumber company to halt the "spite cutting" of giant trees within the confines of a proposed redwood national park.

The plea was made by Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who accused the Miller-Rellim Redwood Company of "perfidy" in logging the lands in Northern California.

Speaking in the Senate, Kuchel said the Crescent City lumber company was "obstinately" continuing with an "irresponsible campaign" to cut the virgin timber before it can be included in the proposed park.

The senator said Miller-Rellim had cut a virgin stand in the Mill Creek section and was logging a "corridor" through trees adjacent to the Jedediah Smith State Park.

Both areas being logged by the firm are within an 18,000-acre area owned by the company which would be included in the park called for in an administration-backed bill introduced by Kuchel.

Kuchel called upon the President, Congress, the lumber industry and the public to press for a halt to the logging.

Parcel Post Bill Sent To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed and sent to President Johnson a bill that would increase rates and package sizes for parcel post.

Packages now are limited to 20 pounds and 72 inches in combined length and girth for first-class offices 150 miles or more apart.

The new bill provides that by next July 1 the weight limit would go to 25 pounds, a year later to 30 and on July 1, 1969, to 40 pounds. The measurement limit would be increased to 78 inches in 1970 and to 84 inches in 1971.

At smaller post offices, the present limits of 70 pounds and 100 inches would be retained.

The new bill also would put into effect by next July 1 rate increases averaging about eight cents a parcel.

Truck Badly Damaged Young Boy Accused

A 13-year-old boy reportedly did $200 damage to a truck parked Tuesday at the north end of Skyview Terrace, San Rafael police said today.

William W. Zeeb, foreman for Carrie Plumbing Co. of San Rafael, owner of the truck, said someone broke or cracked all the windows, pulled out the engine wires, broke the spark plugs, smashed the dashboard panel gauges and slashed two tires. Witnesses reported the 13-year-old suspect, police said.

Cerrudo Slips In National Amateur

Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael today soared five strokes higher than his opening round 70 of yesterday in the 66th U.S. Amateur Golf championships at Ardmore, Pa.

After yesterday's first round, Cerrudo's even par 70 put him in a two-way tie for second, one stroke behind leader Roger McManus of Hartville, Ohio.

His 75 today put him further back with a 36-hole total 145.

Kai Thomsen of Novato also was high on the list of 150 golfers after yesterday's opening round. Thomsen, who had a temporary early lead, shot 36-36-72, three strokes off the pace.

Cerrudo, 21-year-old San Jose State senior, almost had the first round lead but blew his chances on the 18th hole with a double bogey 6. He was tied for second with Jerry Greenbaum, a 25-year-old real estate and liquor store owner from Atlanta.

McManus, a 42-year-old Ohio rug salesman, ran off a streak of four straight birdies for his 69, the only sub-par rounds of the opening day.

After finishing today's round, the sandy haired, 190-pound Cerrudo who recently recovered from an attack of the flu, said, "I played poorly, underclubbed many shots." He lost his putting touch today, three putting three greens, including one where he missed an 18-incher.

Cerrudo, touring the amateur circuit all summer with Bay Area golfing buddies, was going along smoothly yesterday, running in one putt off 40 feet and another of 15 before the final 18th. On this hole, his drive hit a gallery stick and bounced back 15 yards. He topped his second, sent his third over the green and chipped short before getting down in six.

"On this course, you must play for the pars and take birdies thankfully when they come," he said. "You can't attack this course at all. She'll snap back."

The mild-mannered McManus, who lines up his putts through thick spectacles and then putts without them, was three over par after five holes today, double bogeying the fourth and going one over at the fifth.

Ron Schmedemann, 21, a Kansas State accounting major, shot a 69 today on the Merion Golf Club's tough acres. It gave him a 143 total and the early lead in the second round.

Thomsen, 39-year-old airlines pilot, was still on the course, being one of today's late starters.

ELMER GETS THE BUM'S RUSH

Willie A Wonder; Dodgers 'Collapse'

Mays Is Hero In 2-1 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — You can see Willie Mays run. You can see Willie Mays hit. And you can see Willie Mays catch and throw. But you can't see Willie Mays think, and he may just do that better than anything else.

Mays' quick thinking was credited by Manager Herman Franks with bringing the Giants a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets last night and keeping San Francisco in a tie with Pittsburgh for the National League lead.

The keys to the victory, which sent pitcher Juan Marichal into the 20-victory circle for the fourth consecutive year, came in four split-second decisions made by Mays as Marichal and Jack Fisher of the Mets matched four-hitters.

The two biggest came in the top of the ninth inning with the score tied 1-1.

Mays led off and Fisher got two strikes on him. The next pitch was high and outside, but Mays swung, and tripled off the center field wall.

"It's the same type of pitch he struck me out on before," Mays said in explaining his decision to swing. "It's two strikes — I have to guard the plate. It's too close to take with two strikes."

So there was Mays on third base. One out later, Jim Hart lofted a soft fly to Cleon Jones in right field. Jones fired home and Mays came down the line, then beat a slow retreat to third as the throw was perfect.

But Mays had come a little further down the line than most players might, and catcher Jerry Grote fired to third in an attempt to get the retreating runner. But the throw was wild and Mays trotted home with the winning run.

Did Mays deliberately con Grote into a throw?

"I can't say," Mays answered, seemingly trying to avoid the issue but finally admitting:

"I know I can't score on the fly. I had to try something. It could have backfired. But I had to do something."

That was decision No. 2. It brought run No. 2 — and the victory.

But there were two other important decisions, and Mays, naturally enough, did the right thing each time.

In the fourth, the Mets scored on a single by Al Luplow and Ken Boyer's double. Then, with two out, Jim Hickman lined one over second. Mays raced in, reached down and grabbed the ball at his shoe-tops as he executed a perfect somersault.

Why hadn't Mays played the ball safely, letting it drop for a single rather than risking possible injury and a double or triple if it got by him?

"If I let it go, a run's going to score anyway," he said. "That one I have to try and get."

The reason for the question was that Mays had let a similar drive by Luplow drop in for a single with two out in the bottom of the ninth when it seemed he might have reached it with another lunging attempt.

"I can't take a chance on that one," Mays explained. "If it gets by me he can wind up on third, and a passed ball, or an error, anything like that, and the game's tied."

Marichal then got Boyer on a pop to second base for the final out.

GIANTS SIGN BILLY HOEFT FOR RELIEF

NEW YORK (AP)—The San Francisco Giants signed veteran left-hander Billy Hoeft last night in an effort to bolster their pitching staff for the remainder of the National League pennant race.

Hoeft, a former Giant, was released by Chicago two months ago after making 36 relief appearances for the Cubs this season. He has a 1-2 record and a 4.83 earned run average.

The 34-year-old pitcher is in his 15th major league season.

Big Three Fail In L.A. Bid

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers must depend on a rookie tonight to do what their big three couldn't and keep them in the thick of the National League pennant race.

That rookie is right - hander Don Sutton (11-11), who last season toiled in the minors at Albuquerque but this year already has won more games than any other Dodger rookie pitcher.

Sutton will face the veteran Vern Law (9-6) in an attempt to snap a three-game Los Angeles losing streak. The Dodgers' big three— Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen—were the losing pitchers.

Drysdale took the loss, 4 - 3, last night, his 15th against nine victories. He was routed by four Pittsburgh tallies in the fifth inning.

The loss dropped the Dodgers three games behind National League co-leaders San Francisco and Pittsburgh.

Engaged in a scoreless duel with Pirate starter and winner Steve Blass (9-5), Drysdale gave up a one - out single to Bob Bailey in the fifth. Jim Pagliaroni and Blass followed with singles before Drysdale got the second out, but then Gene Alley skipped a single off the glove of second baseman Jim Lefebvre good for two runs. Roberto Clemente bounded a base hit up the middle for his 1,998th career hit and another run, and Willie Stargell chased Drysdale with his third straight single.

DODGERS RETALIATE

The Dodgers retaliated in the sixth with a homer by Willie Davis after a walk to Maury Wills and Wes Parker's single. But even though Blass was relieved by Billy O'Dell and failed to finish for the 23rd straight time, Los Angeles couldn't deliver a crucial base hit.

In the seventh, eighth and ninth innings Los Angeles had the potential tying and winning runs on base, but couldn't score. The Dodgers had runners at first and third in the ninth with no one out, but O'Dell got Wills on a pop fly to right, Parker on a popup behind first and Davis on a grounder to Bill Mazeroski.

Davis' three-run clout was his third in the last five games and eighth of the season. The last nine runs scored by Los Angeles have been the result of home runs, with Lou Johnson, Wes Covington and Parker each hitting two-run shots in the Mets series.

The Dodgers move to Cincinnati after tonight's game for a three - game series. After that, they return home for 15 games and their last home stand of the season.

Shoddy Treatment of Marin's All-Stars Draws Criticism

ALL-STAR TREATMENT: While everyone seemed happy with last Thursday's North-South Marin High School Football Game, there have been a few complaints drifting into this office.

They deal strictly with the shoddy treatment of the players. Otherwise, everyone agreed the game was a big success with the North Marinites trimming the Southerners, 28-19 before a packed stadium.

ONE DISSENTER who requests and is granted anonymity, thought it pretty bush that Marin's All-Star gridders had to provide their own room and board, for one thing.

Also he points out, there were no luncheons or banquets for the gridders—only a small, coffee-and-cake post-game affair at which each player received a $4.95 trophy, which was another sore spot on my friend's gripe vine.

FURTHER, HE growled, players did not receive complimentary tickets for their families.

And the crowning blow, he said, came when the two teams came onto the field in the cheapest game jerseys on the market, hardly fitting for All-Stars.

WHEN ASKED about the tight-fisted operation of the game, a spokesman for the sponsoring Ross Valley Kiwanis said his club was merely complying with National Collegiate Athletic Assn. regulations. He explained the NCAA demands 40 per cent of the gross receipts go to charity and there just isn't enough gravy left over for goodies. Also, the NCAA has put a $5 per player limit on awards, he said.

WHEN INFORMED of this, my friend checked two other Northern California All-Star Games, also under NCAA sanction, and fumed when he learned that:

At Pittsburg, where Contra Costa vs. Alameda All-Stars played, the gridders stayed at Pittsburg Armory for seven days, with meals provided, each was given a jacket or blazer, and a dance and banquet climaxed the annual attraction. The game drew a crowd of 7,000 with tickets priced at $3.50 reserved and $2.50 end zone.

AT ARCATA, where the North Bay, North Central and Northwestern leagues opposed all-stars from

BETTER THINGS COMING

49ers Optimistic

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) —The San Francisco 49ers may be 0-4 in the exhibition season, but their coaches predict much better things to come.

Dick Voris, defensive coach, said yesterday his group was "way ahead" of last year.

Y. A. Tittle, the backfield boss who joined the training camp at Redwood City this week, said, "We're going to have a great offensive club."

Neither, however, offered very definite answers to the obvious question. What about the record?

Jack Christiansen, head coach, did say, "I do not believe we were outhustled in the last two games."

Voris pointed out, "We've been playing quite a few new men, and in the last two games the (Pittsburgh) Steelers and the (Atlanta) Falcons used completely new stuff against us.

"Up to the time they played us they hadn't done much on offense. We had a line, but they hadn't been moving so they put in completely new stuff.

"I'm glad they did. We'll be ready next time."

Voris also said that the defense had made a lot of progress in pressuring the opposing passers, despite statistics which show opponents have outpassed San Francisco 903 yards to 639 yards.

Casper Fires Unimpressive 74 In Carling Tournament

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, bidding for the $35,000 Carling first prize, putted poorly on the back nine of Royal Birkdale today to shoot a one-over-par 74 for an unimpressive 36-hole total of 147.

Kel Nagle of Australia led after yesterday's first round with a 68 and was a late starter today.

Casper went out in even par 35 and was going great guns on the back nine after a birdie 2 at the 14th. But the two finishing holes punished him. He three-putted both the 17th and 18th for 6s.

"I'm so tired of playing golf I can't hit the greens even with a wedge," he said smilingly.

He has competed in 16 tournaments this year and is due to hurry back to the United States after this one for the $100,000 World Series, of Golf.

Casper started as though he would take the 7,037-yard, par 73 Birkdale links apart. He hit the first green in 2 and sank a 12-footer for an eagle 3.

He got a 25-footer down for a birdie 3 at the fifth but on holes where he took bogeys he was penalized each time by strying off the tees. His birdie deuce at the 14th came on a 20-foot putt.

While most of the 165 competitors found their second trip over the 35-38--73 layout a bit tougher, Bruce Devlin came in with a 70 that gave him a temporary grasp on the 36-hole lead at 143.

Early finishers said the wind that struck up overnight off the Irish sea was constantly shifting and causing the scores to climb.

Peter Thomson, another Australian, hiked his second round total to 75 and stood at 145.

Dan Keefe of Chatham, Mass., was one of few who bettered his first round score, coming in today with a 72 for 145. Bob Shave of Gladwyne, Pa., reached the halfway mark with 72-75--147 and Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., soared to 76 after a first round 71.

After today's 18-hole round the field will be cut to the low 75 and ties.

One of the strange turnabouts was what happened to John Lotz of Hayward, Calif.

He shot a 71 yesterday and today he scored a doleful 85. Lotz went out in 38 but he took a 7 on the 13th, an 8 on 15 and another 8 on 16. Then he birdied 17 and 18 with 4s to finish with a back nine 47 and a 36 hole total of 156.

Adams Cup To Seattleite

Diminutive Jerie Clark of Seattle is only five feet tall, but she's standing much taller than that today.

She is the proud winner of the Adams Cup, symbolic of the North American women's sailing championship. She was so far ahead on points going into yesterday's final races, a last place finish in the first of two heats didn't thwart her.

She came back in the final race for a third place finish and won over all competition on San Francisco Bay. The 23-year-old skipper was representing the Corinthian Yacht Club of Seattle.

The series that concluded yesterday was sponsored by the San Francisco Y.C. of Belvedere.

It was a one-two sweep for the West Coast, as second place honors went to Betty Sanchez of Redondo Beach. It was the first time West Coast teams

'LEAN, HUNGRY BEARS' SHOULD BE IMPROVED

BERKELEY (AP)—"If we're the worst team in this conference as some people have suggested, then it will be a pretty darn good conference."

Coach Ray Willsey of the University of California let it be known in those words that he expects his Bears to be stronger this season than in the first two years of his regime.

The California mentor greeted his 70-man squad yesterday, a squad which already had read a letter from him this summer which read, "A lean, hungry Bear is a lot better in a fight than a fat one."

On the first day in uniform, dedicated to picture taking, Willsey said, "We have a good nucleus of boys who have been around a couple of years and have an idea what we expect in football. If they can get the idea to the new ones, I have an idea we can be better than a lot of people give us credit for being."

California numbers only 18 lettermen plus 17 transfers and 29 players up from the frosh. One of the best doesn't fit into any of these categories.

Rick Bennett, a 210-pound halfback from Selma, signed a letter of intent to go to Stanford and then changed his mind. So at Cal he had to sit out his freshman year without any formal athletic program.

Four newcomers were on the offensive team and three on the defense as Willsey lined up his men for the pictures, adding, "there'll be some changes, I'm sure."

At ends on offense he had 158-pound Jerry Bradley and John Beasley, tackles Duane Mayfield and Ed White, guards John Salisbury and John Schmidt and center John Frantz. In the backfield were quarterback Dan Berry, halfbacks Troy Cox and George Gearhart and fullback Frank Lynch.

Mayfield and White, at 228 and 265 pounds respectively, are up from the frosh along with Cox. Gearhart is a transfer from the Air Force Academy.

Defensively, Willsey lined up Chuck Reed and Mike McCaffrey at ends, Dan Goich and Sam Hard at tackles, Mike Bwon and Bob Crittenden at guards, Jim Featherston and Don Anderson as linebackers, Wayne Stewart and Bobby Smith at halfback and Don Guest at safety.

McCaffrey and Stewart, a 6-foot 7-inch defender, are up from the frosh and Reed comes from Pierce Junior College.

One of the changes from last year will have Bradley, the mite from Vallejo, on the starting alignment instead of going in only on spot assignments.

"The kid has the knack of coming up with the big plays for us," Willsey explained of the senior end. "He figures as an integral part of our offense and there won't be too many people lining up on the line of scrimmage anywhere who are smaller than Bradley."

Stanford Soph In Key Role

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford lined up a sophomore quarterback for the opening of football practice and said in effect, "The job is yours if you can keep it."

Gene Washington of Los Angeles takes over a job that senior Dave Lewis has held much of the past two years. Lewis, a 200-pounder, moves to the running halfback spot but will be ready in case the sophomore falters.

George Buehler, a 240-pounder, lined up at left tackle as the second sophomore on the starting lineup.

Coach John Ralston, in his fourth year at the Stanford helm, said yesterday he believes the squad numbers "a few more athletes than in the past. Collectively there is a little better grade all the way around."

His squad numbers 71 and many of the players were allowed to come in somewhat heavier this fall than last. For instance, defensive guard Mike Hibler, an all Pacific Athletic Conference selection in 1965, came in at 245 where last seaof the fall practice.

Ralston believes the two platoon substituting doesn't require as prolonged play so added bulk could be helpful.

Switching Lewis from the quarterback spot, if Washington comes through as expected could give the Indians more flexibility. The big senior can play the running halfback spot, at flanker or split end.

Lined up as the No. 1 offensive team were Bob Conrad and John Mason at ends, Buehler and Blaine Nye at tackles, Rick Derby and Don Swartz at guards and Jim Mills at center. With Washington and Lewis in the backfield were Bob Blunt and Jack Root.

All except the sophomores and Swartz are lettermen.

On defense, the team lined up with nine lettermen and non-lettermen Andy Carrigan, a linebacker, and 210 - pound guard Ron Miller. Al Wilburn and Tom Hazlerigg went at ends, Bill Ogle and Monty Mohrman at tackles Miller and Hibler at guards, Carrigan and Marty Brill at linebacker and John Guillory, Dave Nelson and Donn Renwick in the secondary.

THAT WONDROUS WILLIE MAYS

Willie Mays makes a diving catch (left photo) and after rolling over comes up with the ball on a line drive off the bat of Mets' Jim Hickman in the fourth inning of last night's game in Shea Stadium. The catch saved a runner from scoring. In the ninth inning Mays tripled and then used some of his wizardry on the basepaths to score the winning run. Story on page 37. (UPI Telephotos) and $2.50 end zone.

Eureka, Del Norte and other teams in that sector, each player also received a jacket, the teams stayed at Humboldt State College for 10 days, and a luncheon, swim party and barbecue rounded out the festivities. That game, sponsored by the Eureka Rotary Club, drew only 3,500 fans playing $2.50 (adults), $1.50 (students) and 50 cents (children).

Each player in the Arata and Pittsburg games, my friend also learned, received four complimentary tickets.

THE MARIN game charged $2 for adults and $1 for students and drew approximately 7,500 fans.

My friend points out that obviously there are loopholes in the NCAA regulations because the jackets and blazers given to the Pittsburg and Arcata All-Stars certainly exceed the $5 limit.

FREE TICKETS, banquets, parties, free room and board, jackets — all add up to the genuine all-star treatment for all-star players, he concludes, adding, "I know the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club worked very hard on this game, but I think they should look around and see how other games are operated and do it right."

Raiders Off For AFL Lid-Lifter Tomorrow

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders, down to their 40-man squad limit, planned to fly to Florida today for the season opener against the Miami Dolphins tomorrow night.

To reach the American Football League limit, the team was forced yesterday to put flanker Bill Miller on waivers and tight end Ken Herock and right guard George Flint on the reserve list.

Miller, formerly of Miami University and a talented pass receiver, was the last man cut for the second year in a row.

Herock, a regular who once played for West Virginia, earlier had walked out of camp when he learned that he was playing behind Billy Cannon. The 230-pounder previously had started three years in a row.

have earned the top two spots since the championships were inaugurated in 1924.

Jerie, a salesgal in Seattle, skippered her Cal 20 class sloop to a total of 47¼ points in the three days of competition, and Betty scored 41¼ for second place. Sally Sawyer of Riverside, Conn., was third with 38¼ points.

This was Jerie's third try in the Adams finals. She had piloted to a seventh place at Miami in 1962 and crewed on the Seattle entry in 1960 at Indianapolis. Yesterday she gave a lot of credit to crew members Renate McVittie and Mary Anne Easter, calling their teamwork "fantastic."

Moderate winds slowed the morning race yesterday while stronger breezes of 12-15 knots challenged the girls in the final heat.

Following the top three finishers were Massachusetts with 35½ points; New Jersey, 35¼; Georgia, 33¼; Ney York, 29¼ and Ohio, 28.

Big Weekend Ahead For Pro Grid Fans

The New York Jets, minus quarterback Joe Namath, and Boston Patriots close the American Football League exhibition schedule tonight before six other AFL teams start play for real Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Baltimore, going after its 12th straight pre-season victory, ends its exhibition schedule tonight at Detroit as the National Football Leag e begins its final round of exhibitions.

tinued to juggle their rosters. Three defensive standouts of previous years — Hank Gremminger, Joe Schmidt and Don Bishop — were missing while Jerry Tubbs came out of retirement.

Namath, who returned to practice only this week after missing all but one quarter of the exhibition season with a knee injury, will be on the sidelines as the Jets meet the Patriots in Mobile, Ala. Mike Taliaferro, who has directed the Jets to a 3-0 pre-season log, will call the signals.

The new Miami Dolphins open the AFL season tomorrow night against Western Division conwill be at Houston Saturday night and last year's championship game opponents, San Diego and Buffalo, will play on the west coast in a nationally televised game (NBC) Sunday.

The rest of the NFL schedule has Minnesota at Dallas and St. Louis at Chicago Friday night, at Birmingham, Ala., Philadelphia at Washington, San Francisco at Los Angeles and Green Bay playing New York at Milwaukee Saturday night.

Gremminger, who spent his 10-year NFL career with Green Bay before he was traded last winter to Dallas, chose to retire at Atlanta. The 32-year-old defensive back had been acquired by the Falcons from Dallas.

Detroit gave up hopes that former all-pro middle linebacker Schmidt would come out of retirement and removed him from the roster. The 34-year-old, 14-year veteran quit last winter, but has been coaching with the Lions and staying in condition.

Bishop, a 32-year-old defensive back for Dallas since it entered the NFL in 1960, was cut by the Cowboys when no one claimed him on waivers. He started with Pittsburgh in 1958, was released in 1959 and joined Chicago before moving to Dallas.

Tubbs, a 31-year-old middle linebacker and a nine-year NFL veteran, including service with the San Francisco 49ers, said he would rejoin Dallas as a backup man for Lee Roy Jordan and as an assistant coach.

The Packers traded quarterback Ron Smith, obtained earlier from Los Angeles for back Tom Moore, to Pittsburgh for a high draft choice.

Jimmy Sidle, former Auburn quarterback drafted in 1965, was sold to the Falcons, who will look at him as a running back. He sat out most of last season with a shoulder injury.

Minnesota recalled waivers on rookie defensive end Bill Briggs and traded him to Washington for a draft choice.

Three-Day Hunting Season For Grouse To Start On Saturday

STEVENS

Most of my readers don't work on Saturday, but if they are planning a trip to Lassen and Modoc counties to bag a limit of sage grouse, chances are they will have to work regardless of the fact that is a day off. Grouse are scattered.

Only three days to try for sage grouse. The season closes one-half hour after sunset, Monday.

THAT THREE-DAY season also applies to the shooting of Sierra and ruffled grouse, except you will have much more hunting area in northern counties.

After you bag your two grouse, and you need more meat for the table, why not bag a few cottontail rabbits (also bush, pigmy, and varying hare bunnies are legal prey).

HAPPENS YOU prefer the rod to the gun and the larder is empty, you might try for a salmon or two, although reports are not very enticing; but, failing to find salmon, you can load up on wonderful, tasty rockfish. Seems the bottom dwellers are very definitely hungry. Betty Urbais of the Sausalito bait and boat outfit phoned in a glowing report of success with rockfish.

The boat, "Blue Horizon," docked on Saturday with 560 assorted rockfish and several nice lings (top ling cod ran to 28 pounds and was caught by Al Alzingre of Fairfax). Sid McMullin of Caruso's harbor at Sausalito reported the rockfishing boat, "Kihaku," netted limits or near limits for all aboard. Salmon trolling has been slow for several days and, as of Tuesday noon, it was still in the doldrums, according to McMullin.

STRIPER STRIVING (live bait drifting) has been good, according to McMullin. He reported some nice catches of bass in the Red Rock area, as well as in Racoon Strait, Alcatraz and at the south tower of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Trolling for stripers in the Upper San Pablo Bay has been much better than was expected. On Friday and again on Saturday, an average of two fish per rod was reached by the boat, "Dowrelio No. 5," reported Nadine Lessley of Dowrelio's Crockett Harbor, but Monday some sort of record must have been established. It was so windy and so rough that Nadine suggested that all who appeared for late trolling would be better off by coming around some other day. However, 14 fishermen insisted on giving it a whirl. Results: 27 bass to nine pounds taken off the Union Oil area.

REPORTS HAVE it that at last the expected run of salmon in the upper Sacramento River region has begun. All the way to the Red Bluff-Redding area has come fair to good news.

Clear Lake and Lake Berryessa have come through with some good reports of black bass, crappies and bluegills. Bass seem to have grown, averaging around five to six pounds. Anglers working fairly close to shore have had good luck (try fishing the Point from a rowboat near Wrag Canyon . . . with your favorite lure, or use nightcrawlers and clams to load up on hefty catfish).

Kneeling foreground is Monte Jr., 13, showing off his medal to (from left) Mark, 11, Monte Sr. and Mike, 9. The senior Wolford said he won the 26-mile Pike's Peak Marathon three times (1956-57-58). Mike Wolford was the youngest entrant in Sunday's Dipsea and collected a cut knee as a memento.

Jones To Fight Spener In S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Thad Spencer of Los Angeles and Doug Jones of New York, two of the world's top ranking heavyweight boxers, have signed to meet in a 10-round bout at the Cow Palace Oct. 14.

RUSH LOSES RETURN BOUT

Bring On Clay, Chortles Lincoln After Kayo Win

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Having stopped San Francisco's Elmer Rush in the ninth round, heavyweight boxer Amos (Big Train) Lincoln wants it known he's available to fight anyone, but preferably champion Cassius Clay.

"We don't pick no plum trees to sit under," was the way Lincoln said he isn't choosy about whom he battles. "But the big man, that's the one we're chasing."

Lincoln, 207, of Los Angeles, enhanced his World Boxing Assn. No. 3 contender's rating when he bombed the 212-pound Rush with a left hook in the ninth. Elmer was up at nine but when Lincoln battered him around the ring, Referee Tony Bosnich called a halt at 2:54.

Under California rules it went as a knockout and put the Lincoln record at 21-3-3.

In his opening offense of the fight, Lincoln decked Rush with a right to the chin in the opening round and nearly ended it then. Elmer survived the stanza to jab and box his way back into contention before a crowd of 3,237 which paid a net of $11,353 at Civic Auditorium.

At the end of the eighth Bosnich had Lincoln ahead 5-2 in points. Judge Jack Silver had it 5-3 for the Los Angeles fighter and Judge Frankie Carter 4-4.

When Rush tried to trade with Lincoln, the left hook landed and the issue was decided. The loss was the third for the San Francisco longshoreman who has won 14 and fought two draws.

Of Bosnich's decision to call the halt, Rush commented: "I didn't think I was hurt that bad," but he made no major issue of it. Lincoln was landing at will when the fight was stopped.

The meeting came as a rematch of the June 21 bout which went to Lincoln on a technical decision when he suffered a head cut from a butt when leading on points.

"My plans are indefinite," commented Lincoln. "Another fight, but I don't know, who. I want a fast track and runaway course. I won't stop until I get the title. I think Mohammed Clay and I could fill up a place."

That would bring him a lot more than the $3,500 for beating Rush.

Today is Thursday, Sept. 1, the 244th day of 1966 with 121 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Saturn, Jupiter, Mars and Venus. The evening star is Saturn.

Pioneer American journalist James Gordon Bennett was born on this day in 1795.

On this day in history:

In 1932, New York City Mayor Jimmy Walker resigned after an investigation of corruption by the Seabury Committee.

In 1939, World War II broke out as Germany invaded Poland.

In 1962, some 20,000 persons were killed when an earthquake struck in western Iran.

In 1965, Pakistani troops moved into the Indian-controlled part of Kashmir and a subsequent war started.

A thought for the day — American writer Irwin Shaw said: "I have a religion that wants to take heaven out of the clouds and plant it right here on the earth where most of us can get a slice of it."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When There Are Two Contract Choices, Try To Avoid Guessing

When there are two ways of playing for your contract, avoid guessing. Try part of one plan and then, if nothing very wonderful seems to be happening, switch to the other.

Opening lead — ♣ 10

South took the first club, drew two rounds of trumps and led a heart, using dummy's king to force out the ace. East returned a club.

Now South needed a little luck in one red suit or the other. If West had the jack of hearts, South could win two heart tricks with the queen and ten, to get rid of a diamond.

Alternatively, if West had the king of diamonds, a simple finesse would bring home the slam.

Unwilling to make up his mind, South tried running all of his winners in spades and clubs first.

On the last of these he had to guess whether to save in dummy the singleton queen of hearts or the singleton ace of diamonds.

South had seen West throw away three diamonds but no hearts, so he discarded dummy's ten of hearts and tried the diamond finesse. Down one.

TWO WAYS

There were two ways to make the slam easily. One way is to cash the queen of hearts before running the spades and clubs.

When the jack of hearts drops, the party is over. If the jack fails to drop, South can later fall back on the diamond finesse.

Another way is to lead a diamond to the ace after East's club return and then run all of the black winners, saving the Q-10 of hearts in the dummy and the queen of diamonds and a heart in the South hand.

If nobody throws away the king of diamonds, South must eventually lead a heart and hope to get two heart tricks.

Either plan works, as long as South doesn't force himself to guess.

You have 12 points in high cards, 1 point for the doubleton, and excellent intermediate cards (two tens, a nine, and two eights). With a borderline hand, open a hand with good intermediate cards.

THREE MARIN businesses have received contracts to participate in the development of the 250-acre Sycamore park community in Danville, Contra Costa County.

Warren Callister and Associates, Tiburon has been assigned the design responsibilities for the entire project, including the architecture of a $175,000 clubhouse.

MRS. JEANNE GRAEBER of Novato, sales representative for Tupperware products, was made "Queen of the Forum" at the company's recent annual sales convention in Logan, Utah. She was the top sales producer, in her distributorship.

PROFITS VANISHED IN AIR. Revenues from added traffic to airlines such as American Airlines, who were not grounded during the recent strike, did not benefit those companies, even though there was an extra burden. American, for one, was under tremendous pressure to make passenger space available.

Under a mutual aid pact, those extra receipts, less the expense of handling the added traffic, were paid to member carriers on strike.

Computer Watchdogs Power Plant

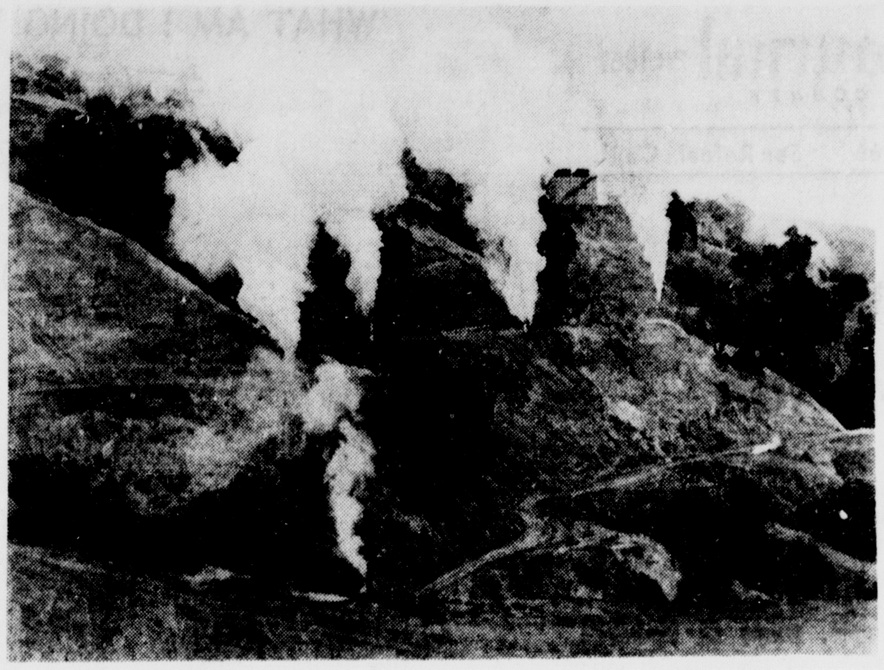
GRAND COULEE, Wash. (SS) A "watchdog" computer system is expected to save more than $600,000 a year by watching over the largest hydroelectric power facility in the U.S.

The automated system will monitor and record data at Grand Coulee Dam, including generators, switchyards and giant 65,000-horsepower pumps that lift water up into a reservoir for canals irrigating a half-million acres of land.

Reportedly the first ever applied to an all-hydro power plant, the system will become fully operational by the end of September. The Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation built and operates the dam on the Columbia River.

Grand Coulee, with 18 generators in two power plants at opposite ends of the dam's spillway, now has a rated capacity of almost 2 million kilowatts that is fed into the northwest power pool. A third power plant, authorized last June by Congress, will boost the dam's output to 5.6 million kilowatts.

Prior to the computer system's installation, highly trained clipboard-carrying operators had to carefully watch the operation of each of the 108,-000-kilowatt capacity generators to insure that they were operating properly.



NATURE'S POWER SOURCES HARNESSED

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has harnessed steam flowing through faults deep in the earth to spin generators producing 26,000 kilowatts at the Geyser power plant 100 miles north of Marin. Most of the buildings are hidden by steam; only the cooling tower is visible at top right. (UPI Telephoto)

Economic Forecasters Agree Recession Possible

By PETER NAGAN
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — There is a growing belief among economic forecasters that the current long-lived business expansion will end — perhaps before many months have passed — in an old-fashioned recession.

Investors have their doubts, too, which helps explain the stock market's persistent decline.

Despite supposedly advanced knowledge of the workings of the business system, as expressed in the so-called "new economics," business analysts see ominous signs that history may be about to repeat itself.

The U.S. is unmistakably in the grip of a feverish business boom. The seeds of a "bust" are being scattered liberally.

What bothers the experts is the fact that the steady, stolid upturn, which began in 1961 and has carried the economy to record heights, has lost its beautiful balance. Until about a year ago, spending by business, government, and consumers was rising at just the right rate — bringing idle capacity into operation, but not imposing strains at any major point. Consumption meshed nicely with production. Business profits were rising. But, because prices were stable, labor was content with moderate wage gains.

Economists in government and industry could, for a long time, see no reason why the expansion should not continue indefinitely — or, at worst, with minor, short-term slowings in the rate of rise, but the war in Vietnam has changed all this.

Defense needs have imposed new burdens on the economy, increasing demand for materials and labor in many lines faster than capacity has been able to expand. Prices of commodities shot up, set by world market forces rather than corporate decisions. As consumer prices reflected these movements, the unions became restive. The fact that industry was also raising prices at a time when its profits were at record levels contributed to labor's unhappiness.

So the experts have had to watch while a wage-price spiral has begun. Labor is out to keep inflation from eating up its wage gains. Industry means to keep prices ahead of costs. The struggle is likely to intensify — become more frantic — as the months pass.

Efforts to stem the tide have been largely ineffectual. There is a limit to what tight money can do. Efforts to shrink the supply of credit have meant pushed up interest rates, and only activity in home-building has really been cramped.

The president has declined to ask for the tax increases that might have kept inflation in check.

Now many analysts fear that inflation will have to run a fairly long and unhappy course. Too many distortions have crept into the economy. The beautiful balance is gone.

Costs, wages, and prices are out of equilibrium. Price increases may now tend to reduce buying of certain goods, which consumers already have in plentiful supply, having bought them freely out of their recent big income boosts. Autos are a case in point.

Market Retains Gain Despite Late Selling

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today despite late profit taking which cut gains. Trading was moderate.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.2 million shares compared with 8.69 million Wednesday.

Here was the picture near the close:

It was the week's slowest pace. Caution increased as the list tried to finish the session with its third straight gain. The approach of the weekend and typical Thursday hesitation over possible action by the Federal Reserve Board tended to cut down trading.

Investment demand for American Telephone made that stock the outstanding candidate as the day's volume leader. It advanced about 1½ in a show of strength not seen for many months.

Other blue chips which showed a changing complexion in the market — dominated so long by high-priced glamor stocks—were General Motors, up more than a point; Du Pont, up 3; Union Carbide, up 1½.

Corning Glass rose 3. Up about 2 were Texas Gulf Sulphur, Cities Service, Grumman, American Home Products and Fairchild Camera.

Airlines were weak.

Gold mining stocks rose following news of the big monthly decline in U.S. gold holdings.

Ahead about a point were Polaroid, IBM, Itek, Texas Instruments; Commonwealth Edison and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Advances by selected blue chips put the averages up for the third straight day of a strong recovery from Monday's lows.

Both institutional investors and "the little fellow" were held accountable for strength in such old favorites as American Telephone, Standard Oil New Jersey) and Du Pont.

Gains of about 3 by Du Pont and a point or so by AT&T and GM gave the averages strong backing.

Profits were taken in a number of high-flying glamor stocks. Some of these were off sharply. Among key stocks Chrysler dipped more than a point.

Airlines were weak all day. The rise was irregular at best.

Congress Reveals Big Red Buying

By EDWARD O'BRIEN
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — The United States government financed shipment of $70,869,000 in American products to Communist nations of East Europe in a recent 14-month period, House hearings have revealed.

In the same hearings, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara conceded that the administration has approved export of "strategic materials and data" to Communist bloc countries which are furnishing supplies to North Viet Nam.

The three European satellites which benefitted from United States government credit guaranties between Jan. 1, 1965, and Feb. 28, 1966, are Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

Rumania, which was given a $20 million government-backed loan for an oil refinery, is known to be furnishing trucks to North Viet Nam.

Facts about assistance to North Viet Nam by other Red nations of Europe are classified as secret and are withheld from the public. It is believed that the Red bloc generally has been helping the Viet Cong to a substantial degree.

The recent loan guaranties were made by the Export-Import Bank, a federal agency.

The $70,869,000 total did not include loans made before 1965, including some still outstanding with Poland. Polish ships have been among the principal carriers of war materials to North Viet Nam.

The recent loan guaranties included $34,773,000 to Yugoslavia for fertilizer factories and $12,-207,000 for railroad locomotives.

Export-Import Bank president Harold F. Linder testified to the House Appropriations Committee that the Communist loans were "very small" and were made only afetr a finding by President Johnson that they would be in the national interest.

In the same foreign aid hearings, Secretary McNamara defended the administration's policy of attempting to "build bridges" to Communist nations by allowing trade with them and providing credit assistance.

While admitting that strategic materials and technical information have been licensed for export to Red nations which are supplying North Viet Nam, he said: "The Communist bloc nations dealing with North Viet Nam have not been dealing in the kinds of items that would in any way have been influenced by the export of materials or data."

Open Space Amendment Will Spur Conservation

Proposition 3 on the November ballot, the so-called Open Space Assessment Measure or the Breathing Space Amendment, will not necessarily work miracles.

Some of its most active and enthusiastic proponents get carried away by their own rhetoric and paint a rosy picture of having vast areas of open space protected eternally from the onslaught of the bulldozer. This is not necessarily the case.

Proposition 3, if approved by the voters, would merely give the State Legislature a chance to help preserve some of the open space now used for growing of crops, for recreation, or for scenic enjoyment.

It gives the Legislature a chance to help owners of open land, who want to keep it that way, from being forced to sell to subdividers and commercial developers because of prohibitively high taxes.

While it will not halt urban sprawl, it may serve to slow down the relentless bulldozer that gobbles up better than a half square mile of the state's agricultural land each day.

Any brake that can be applied to the indiscriminate paving of our best agricultural, forest and scenic lands is welcome. Proposition 3, the constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel, deserves to be supported.

This is how the constitutional amendment would work: The proposition would permit the State Legislature to define open space land and provide proper assessment guidelines when such lands are restricted solely for recreation, enjoyment of scenic beauty, use of natural resources, and growing of crops or trees.

County assessors would be required to assess those lands on such basis as the Legislature shall determine to be consistent with such restriction and use.

At present, the county assessors' hands are tied. By law, they are required to assess land at full cash value on the basis of its best possible use.

For example, tracts of timbered land, purchased for recreational purposes, now are assessed for their value as harvestable timber. If the taxes based upon timber value are so high that the owner must harvest the timber to pay the taxes, the original purpose for purchasing the lands—to enjoy the trees—is lost.

A family in Sacramento County had been on the same ranch since 1913. Every other year the owner harvested a crop of barley, oats or wheat. The 1959 tax on the 230 acres was $1,638. The 1960 tax bill was $9,582—a 485 per cent increase in one year. This tax bill amounts to $41 per acre on farm land grossing $20 to $30 an acre.

In each case, assessing open land at its highest and best possible use raised taxes so high that open land could not be maintained in its existing use. Subdivisions or lumbering operations were forced to step in.

The proposed amendment would encourage the maintenance of green belts, and use of private lands for recreation, natural resource development, and production of food products.

As we understand it, the power to zone land for agricultural or other use would remain as at present with local authorities (cities and counties). The role of the Legislature would be to permit county assessors to assess designated forests, farms or other open land at lower rates than their potential subdivision or logging value.

The proposition would thus encourage land owners to preserve instead of destroy open lands.

Administrators Burning Job Bridges By Joining Campaign

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Another of Governor Edmund G. Brown's administrators has jumped into the election campaign.

This was Bradford M. Crittenden, commissioner of the California highway patrol and administrator of the public safety agency. The administrator job is by executive order only and does not carry a salary.

Crittenden offered Ronald Reagan, Brown's Republican opponent in the November election, a briefing on crime in California. Crittenden offered to supply Reagan with some statistics on the crime rate and charged that Reagan's "script writers" were wrong.

THIS IS THE same approach taken by several other administrators under Brown. Hugo Fisher, administrator of the resources agency, offered to fill Reagan in on the state fish and wildlife plan, a lengthy and comprehensive study completed but not yet adopted by any agency.

William E. Warne, director of water resources, offered similar services on the state water project and Brown, himself, offered some time ago to send a copy of the budget to Reagan to let the candidate show where he'd make savings.

The directors and administrators report to Brown and his staff regularly to keep him informed of developments and always are available to fill him in when he needs answers to questions. The strategy of much of Brown's campaign has been to demonstrate that Reagan, without this set of advisors, is lacking in knowledge of government.

CRITTENDEN'S statement on crime was the second in that area as Richard A. McGee, administrator of the youth and adult corrections agency, made a similar statement recently.

The entry of Brown appointees in high places into the campaign is being watched with interest in Sacramento. All of his directors, deputies, and others holding good-paying jobs exempt from civil service presumably are loyal to Governor Brown.

A NUMBER of them, however, would prefer not to make public statements and get themselves involved in the partisan campaign. Many of these public servants have long careers in state government and would like to get in a few more years at their present top salaries to fatten up their retirement allowances.

Once a director or administrator issues a statement challenging Reagan, it generally is considered he is taking himself out of any consideration for retention, should Reagan defeat Brown in November.

As the campaign wears on and the going gets rougher, fewer and fewer of the directors may be able to remain aloof from the contest. Brown's campaign aides may insist that they stand up to be counted and thus burn their job security bridges.

BOTH FISHER and Warne have been highly critical of Reagan and would be expected to be among the first to leave after a Reagan victory. McGee, on the other hand, has served under Governors Earl Warren and Goodwin J. Knight, as well as Brown. Crittenden, former San Joaquin district attorney, was first appointed by Brown.

Bouquets Regarding Litter And Trash

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A bouquet should go to Judge David Baty of Point Reyes Station for assigning a young law breaker to picking up roadside litter in West Marin.

And a bouquet also for Jack Mason of Inverness for using his own truck and time to gather up the boxed trash and removing it to the public dump.

The Word's 'Nuts,' Says Springer

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I wonder if you would publish a reply by a veteran to statements made by one John Irwin in the Aug. 25 issue of your paper under the headline "Peace marchers are defended"?

Mr. Irwin states that he was in the Battle of the Bulge—so what?—There were between 250,000 and 300,000 other GIs taking part in the same battle and millions more were fighting on other fronts. Maybe he remembers the one word reply that General Toni McAuliffe gave the Germans when he was asked to surrender his command, it was NUTS, and that is my answer to your statements in your article, Mr. Irwin.

Nothing could be further from the truth than your statement that there were about a thousand veterans in the Oakland peace march. As to the statement "there are many veterans in the peace organizations," what is meant by "many"? The Veterans Administration in July, 1965 gave the numbers of veterans as 21,850,000. How many of these veterans would you say belong to these so-called peace organizations?

And now to the most ridiculous statement of all, "Peace Marchers are the real patriots." Peace marches, misled by persons of your thinking, are widely publicized in North Viet Nam. They bring joy and comfort to our enemies, encouraging them to continue this war, thereby causing more casualties among our troops. They confuse our allies and might tend to undermine the morale of our boys fighting over there if continued.

Now one last question, "Did you volunteer in World War II, or were you drafted?"

Which Candidate Is Least Unattractive?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In response to my letter of Aug. 12, N. A. Hyams has quoted several so-called embarrassing questions which have been raised by Ronald Reagan and the Republicans...

Let us examine just a few of these "embarrassments."

(1) 'Why are such extravagant sums of the state taxpayers' money needed for welfare (over $800,000,000 this fiscal year) and poverty programs if economic conditions in California are as good as Brown claims they are?"

In a state of about 19,000,000 people, this figure indicates that the average per capita expenditure for welfare and anti-poverty programs is about $40 a year. Mr. Hyams might compare this "extravagant" figure with the average yearly per capita expenditure of almost $300 for national defense to consider which is the greater governmental boondoggle.

The largest single category of the public welfare program is financial and medical assistance to the aged. Furthermore . . . there exists crippling poverty due to technological unemployment, racial discrimination and lack of educational opportunities. Unless Mr. Hyams is prepared to remedy old age and solve the ubiquitous problem of poverty, the cost of the state welfare and anti-poverty programs will justifiably grow.

(2) 'Why have state welfare agencies permitted such misuse of welfare funds as the purchase of jewelry for boy friends by recipients of aid-to-needy-children money?"

And recipients are, fortunately, legally permitted to have boy friends and purchase jewelry. Such a practice does not, in itself, denote misuse of funds, unless there is resultant child-neglect. . . .

(3) "Why should wage earners be taxed to pay for the obtaining of higher educational degrees by welfare department employees on leave from their jobs?"

Such leave-taking requires a commitment from the employee that he will return to work in the welfare department after obtaining an advanced degree. This practice, which, incidentally, is hardly peculiar to California, guarantees the qualitative growth and stability of state welfare services. Is Mr. Hyams unaware that private industry makes similar investments in its employees for the very same reason?

Lest this letter be considered an endorsement of Governor Brown, I wish to point out that I simply believe him to be a somewhat less unattractive political candidate than Mr. Reagan. His campaign would certainly be enhanced if he could remain unembarrassed by such unembarrassing questions as are sometimes raised by his uninformed opponents.

BENNETT CERF

A TRAFFIC COP on the Park Avenue beat got a scare the other day when the lights changed before an elderly lady, refusing to hurry her steps, could negotiate the crossing of the wide thoroughfare. He dashed over and hustled her to the curb, barely avoiding a couple of impatient taxi drivers (the kind who are always trying to beat the light by a few seconds out of sheer orneriness!) The elderly lady was properly indignant. "Hmph," she snorted, "they're spending billions to put an astronaut on the moon, but a body can't even get across Park Avenue!"

NEAR ONE of Hollywood's well-patronized race tracks there's a ladies' shop specializing in lacy undergarments. Winners at the track frequently drop in to pick up a frivolous knickknack for the girl they left at home.

The shop's proprietress recently added a new line of brassieres. She had her own name for it, too—in honor of clientele: The Daily Double.

Dirksen Religious Amendment Not Gaining Church Support

WASHINGTON — One of the most striking facts to emerge from the Judiciary Committee hearings on Sen. Everett Dirksen's public school prayer amendment is that most religious denominations in the United States are against any such amendment.

It seems evident that Mr. Dirksen's move to rewrite the Bill of Rights is losing support among those he expected to be its backers—religious leaders.

The main thrust of their argument is that any attempt to amend the First Amendment and to "clarify" the Supreme Court decision banning prescribed prayers or Bible readings in the public schools would lead to confusion and religious conflict.

THIS IS THE substance of the testimony of the National Council of Churches, a Roman Catholic law school dean, and a Harvard law professor.

It is clear that the nearer Congress comes to actually changing the Bill of Rights on separation of church and state, the more disposed are the leaders of most denominations to think it unwise to do so.

On the basis of a nationwide survey, the Christian Science Monitor reports that leaders of 11 Protestant denominations and the spokesmen for the Jewish faith "strongly disapprove of permitting even voluntary prayers in the public schools."

IMPORTANT CATHOLIC churchmen strongly favor the Dirksen Amendment, but Catholoc support of it is not monolithic.

Clergymen advise against the Dirksen Amendment on four main grounds:

1—They don't want any "tampering" with the First Amendment by enlisting, even voluntarily, any arm of government in behalf of the exercise of freedom of religion. They feel that such a course would weaken the Constitutional separation of church and state.

2—These churchmen believe that school officials are not acting in their proper sphere by providing for classroom religious exercises even if they do not decide its content.

3—THEY CONTEND that in reality there can be no "voluntary" prayers in public school unless there is only silent prayer and that to adapt or dilute such prayers to the conflicting wishes of differing groups in the community would either be unworkable or make such prayers meaningless.

4—Perhaps most important of all, these clergymen see public school religious exercises as not really conducive to spiritual growth, feel that the home and the church are the source of spiritual nourishment, and point out that no Supreme Court decision prevents any individual "from praying at any time and in any place." No amendment to the Constitution is needed to confer this right. It already exists.

One Protestant spokesman said he knew of no Protestant denomination which officially favored the Dirksen Amendment. Numerous national leaders of the Catholic Church, including Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, do favor it, but several Catholic educators question its value and its appropriateness.

GLENN L. ARCHER, executive director of the Protestants and Others United for Separation of Church and State, says that most prayer - amendment support comes from "individual campaigns," such as that waged by the Liberty Lobby, a conservative political action group. These advocates are genuinely desirous of seeing more prayer in the nation, but Mr. Archer replies — and I think rightly—that "the way to get it is not to legislate it. Prayer that is legislated is not prayer at all."

This view is shared by the American Jewish Committee which believes that "religious training rests with the parent and his church or synagogue, not with the public school."

President Creating Little City Cabinets

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is setting up what amounts to a nationwide system of "little cabinets" in major cities.

In a series of executive orders, little-noticed Federal Executive Boards are being created and empowered to oversee, coordinate and promote Great Society programs on the local level.

These "little cabinets," whose chairmen have direct telephone links with the White House, are composed of top federal officials in each city.

FIFTEEN OF THESE boards are now functioning in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Atlanta, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul-Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Dallas-Fort Worth, Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle and Honolulu.

Under plans now on the President's desk, another half dozen of these federal boards will be established in other large cities as soon as Congress passes the administration's $2.3 billion demonstration cities legislation. This measure has passed the Senate and is awaiting action by the House.

Once that huge spending program is underway, the President intends to assign $25,000-a-year "federal expediters," authorized by the legislation, to work with each "little cabinet."

THEIR JOINT JOB will be to mobilize and coordinate federal and local activities aimed at wiping out slums and increasing employment.

Government information centers, similar to the experimental one opened last month in Atlanta, Ga., will be set up to assist the boards.

Also contemplated are "speakers bureaus" that will utilize government officials to explain and propagate programs and activities, and community relations committees made up of federal and local officials who will tackle such problems as crime and unemployment.

A WHITE HOUSE memorandum to all federal agencies defined the mission of these boards as follows:

"Working to advance national programs by creating a greater federal community of interest, by promoting coordination and programs across agency lines, and by conducting joint projects to achieve greater efficiency and economy, and establishment of liaison with local governments."

Stressing that "the FEB's represent a new departure in top government management," the memo continues:

"Growing out of an idea of the late President Kennedy, the boards embody a dynamic approach toward improving relations between the various federal departments and agencies and local governments outside of the national Capital area.

"THE MANDATE given FEB's is one of wide dimensions, but with two principal responsibilities: information and operational. The activities of the boards can be almost unlimited in scope.

"The late President Kennedy saw the FEB as resembling a 'regional cabinet' whose members had leadership responsibilities in their particular agencies and in the federal community, properly relating and coordinating their own programs to the complex and interrelated federal governmen of today."

Traces Of Humanity Sneak Into Corte Madera Police Reports

From reading police reports, one usually gets the feeling that the policemen who write them are trying to imitate the style of a computer that can't spell.

Rarely does one see any trace, amidst the stereotyped phrasing and the over-abundant abbreviation, that the thing was written by a human being—except, of course, for the spelling.

But in Corte Madera it's different. In Corte Madera, police reports show refreshingly wild streaks of the author's personality.

A REPORT by Patrolman Charles E. Newman notes that the C. (complainant) called to say she was mad at the whole United States government in general and the local postmaster in particular, because she refused to put her name on her mail box and the postmaster subsequently refused to deliver her mail, "and now we come to the crux of her one sided reasoning," Newman reports.

"She will not put her name on the box because the town is infested with nuts, crooks, peeping toms, and rapists and you name it brother, we have it. The C. is well aware that the Corte Madera police department is made up of crooks and misfits, but she has just found out that the mail carriers can beat us in spades when it comes to crooking."

MORE TRACES of humanity were found in a report written by Patrolman William G. Reed, which said briefly:

"C. states that a WMJ (white male juvenile) with long hair was looking at her while she was sitting on the porch. C. is a very pretty 13-year-old and I don't blame the WMJ. No further action."

Nothing of the computer's cold objectivity was to be found in a report submitted by Patrolman Charles Rester. Rester reported that a C. complained of a noisy party at 8:35 p.m. Rester told him the party was to end at 9 p.m. The C. wanted the noise stopped immediately. Rester said he would ask the host to turn the music down.

"C. said the R/O (reporting officer) should tell them to turn it down or else and at that this R/O walked off and this is the reason the name, etc. in this report is not complete since R/O felt it was best to leave well enough alone as any more contact with the C. and public relations would be all shot down."

But the same officer wrote the following more-than-accomodating report:

"C. SAID HER DOG was next door and she wanted it back. R/O went next door and returned dog to C."

Rester again:

"C. wanted to sign a complaint for a stolen car. Husband has the car. R/O refused the complaint. C. was unhappy about this, but that's the way it goes."

Patrolman Charles S. Brobeck may have been trying for formal police style in the following report:

"While checking store a small rat or a large mouse was seen scurrying up and down along the curb, and was disposed of with this officer's foot. No further action.

BUT CONSIDER the type of calls the officers have to deal with. Patrolman Fred Talmadge reported a C. complaining that so may cars were parked in front of her house that there would not be room for a fire truck to pass. Talmadge said he would cite all the cars. The C. said one was hers, not to cite it. Talmadge said he was going to cite all the cars. The C. said she would move hers.

A sigh can be heard at the end of another of Talmadge's reports, which says a C. complained of a teen-age neighbor's speeding up and down the block. "R/O spoke with the boy and his mother, not that it will do much good. Time will tell."

TALMADGE REPORTED another call, from a C. who had apparently been drinking, complaining of boats speeding in the canal behind her house. "She was informed that we could not chase speeding boats as the patrol vehicles would not float," the officer reported.

Talmadge, writing a report on a woman who constantly calls the department, asking them to fingerprint a window, a knife or the whole house, sure that someone has broken in or is trying to break in, noted:

"The mysterious phantom is active again on . . . Avenue. C. called to report that when she went to San Francisco she had unplugged her iron, and when she returned she found it plugged in. She wanted it dusted for fingerprints. R/O responded with camera, dusting equipment and went to work, but as was expected the phantom did not leave any prints. I do believe he is getting cagier all the time."

Side Tour To Gehenna En Route To The Great Society Utopia

The road we are set on, I do not doubt, is paved with good intentions. Yet, though the Great Society signposts along the way read "Onward and Upward" and our intellectual leaders assure us the Promised Land is near, some of us fear we are heading for Gehenna.

It could be, of course, that the planners are lost in a maze of their own making and don't know down from up. But to suggest that is heresy — and things are tough enough for me now.

NEVERTHELESS, a glance at the record reveals an immense disparity between the glowing promises of the prospectus and the drab data of reality. Let's take a look.

Our deep thinkers now operate on the humane theory that it is better for ten innocent victims to be slain than that one self-confessed murderer be spoken to harshly. And our crime rate soars.

To the accompaniment of intellectual cheers, sex has come out of the bedroom ghetto in which it was segregated by our Puritan fathers and is now fully integrated into all areas of our society, beginning at the high-school level. I do hope, however, that Congress will pass a law giving sex a 40-hour week, because after that some pensioners find it a burden. And a couple of coffee-breaks would relieve the tension, too.

EVEN SEX DEVIATION is out of the clinic and into the open, and homosexuals are the heroes (and heroines) of some of our best-selling novels and plays, not to mention some rather startling magazines on display at the newsstands.

Representatives of this ancient cult have demanded a booth at the California State Fair, so that they may pass out their literature and, hopefully, achieve understanding if not converts. The Fair authorities, Pecksniffs probably, have turned the request down, even though some ministers backed it. Yet we all know that defying the clergy is dangerous—that's what ruined Gomorrah, wasn't it?

THE STATISTICS of our drug traffic do not make pretty reading. But in this field, there's an interesting new development. Morphine and heroin are still universally condemned and the junkie is regarded as a sad figure.

Bus LSD is an intellectual drug, apparently, and there is a growing list of university professors and students who are addicts and proclaim the spiritual beauty of "the trip" it provides. There is a chance that the drug may yet prove a cultural asset, and that some advanced colleges may offer a degree to those who take the most trips.

And what the planners have done to our money beggars description—and may soon beggar all of us. I remember when a million dollars was a formidable amount and not to be treated lightly. But those days are over.

DR. KING — no small-time operator, he—suggests the government spend $100 billion to end our racial ills, and nobody faints or asks where the money's coming from. The more conservative Mayor Lindsay thinks with only $50 billion he could make New York City livable.

Mayor Yorty of Los Angeles had a chance to top them both but struck out, and Sen. Robert Kennedy, formerly of Massachusetts but now representing New York, South Africa and Watts, bawled Yorty out for not doing his homework properly and failing to assume jurisdiction over areas he did not control. That technicality never bothered Sen. Kennedy.

THE SENATOR, I fear, finds it hard to realize that other men lack his quick grasp. In 1960, while in Los Angeles for the Democratic convention, a TV interviewer asked how he stood on the Connally Amendment, and Bobby replied that he didn't know what it was.

Yet, a mere six months afterward, he was sworn in as U. S. Atty.-Gen. There's a Horatio Alger story if ever I heard one. It was during that stay in L.A., I take it, that he boned up on Watts, too.

FLASH—I interrupt this resume to report that Gov. Pat Brown, addressing a group of Mexican Americans, has just dropped another political bombshell by exposing Ronald Reagan as prejudiced against them. That leaves Reagan unprejudiced only against Eskimos.

More anon. I'll try to get one more report in before we reach Kehenna. It shouldn't be long now.

"There is no man suddenly either excellently good or extremely evil." Sir P. Sidney — Arcadia.

Three Hospitals Hike Daily Rates

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)— Rates at three Santa Cruz hospitals will go up Sept. 15.

Sisters, Community, and Dominican Santa Cruz hospitals announced increases of $8-to-$10 per day for private and semi-private rooms.

Permission has also been asked from the California Department of Social Welfare by the County General Hospital to raise rates. The Board of Supervisors would also have to approve such an increase.

If every motorist in California would carry a litter bag in his car and use it, California would soon have roadsides as clean as many other States.

Don't Become A Traffic Statistic; Drive Defensively—And Soberly

NEW YORK (AP)—Plan to be driving during the Labor Day weekend? Like some tips on how to avoid becoming a highway slaughter statistic?

The tips come from traffic experts of the National Safety Council, the Greyhound Bus Lines and the American Trucking Associations, Inc.

Harry Porter Jr., manager of the National Safety Council's traffic department, offers these:

"The need to drive defensively—trying to outguess the other guy — is greater over holiday weekends because there are so many more cars on the road driven by more or less amateur drivers.

"Every driver has to worry about his car as related to the car ahead, the one behind, those approaching from the sides at an intersection, the one he is passing.

"Of these, passing is the most dangerous maneuver because that is the time your car is closest to another. The defensive driver pulls out to pass well behind the car ahead so that if he sees he can't pass he can slip safely back into the right lane.

"Seat belts are life savers but they're useless unless they are being worn. On Labor Day weekend, at fairgrounds and race tracks all over America, there will be automobile races. You can bet none of those professional daredevils will be driving without their seat belts fastenend.

"Many peopie who worry about waiting an hour after eating before going in swimming think nothing of climbing behind the wheel to drive right after drinking alcoholic beverages. If you can't do without drinking, at least allow your physical system time to dispose of the alcohol."

Robert Forman, director of safety and personnal for Greyhound, has distributed a Labor Day precautionary poster to drivers containing this advice:

"Doublecheck your own driving to stop possible bad driving habits before they stop you.

"Watch your following distance, particularly in heavy traffic.

"The best way to let people know where you are is to use your horn. Even if the fellow you honk at turns around and shakes his fist at you, at least he knows you're there."

Forman added to an interviewer:

"If I could get the rest of the driving public to follow these precautions I think we would all come through Labor Day just a little better off."

The American Trucking Association carries on a year-long safety campaign with special emphasis on holiday hazards.

Its current bulletin cautions drivers to be specially careful in the vicinity of holiday centers such as national and state parks, fishing and boating resorts and tourist attractions.

The organization warns truck jockeys to avoid excessive speed in heavy traffic; to pull off the road and let traffic pass if a jam is impending; to avoid passing other trucks at speeds slow enough to cramp the movement of vehicles behind.

Zip Code Will Be Mandatory For Bulk Mail

Do you know your zip code? If you send out second or third class mail you'd better know it by the New Year.

Starting Jan. 1, the Post Office will require zip codes on all second and third class bulk mail.

San Rafael Postmaster Warren H. Williams said permit holders have been notified of the requirement by certified letter—"and if the mail isn't prepared according to zip code it won't be accepted."

The postmaster said currently around 64 per cent of all mail received in San Rafael bears zip codes: "The public has accepted it very well."

Delivery Boy Robbed Again

A strong-arm $8 robbery of a Sausalito Pharmacy delivery boy by three youths in Marin City was reported Tuesday by sheriff's officers.

Deputies said the victim, James King Muldoon, said he had just completed a delivery on Cole Drive when the trio confronted him. One wielded a stick, demanding the money, he said, and the other two remained in the background. The three, described as between 17 and 20 years old, fled after the robbery.

Another delivery boy from the same pharmacy was robbed twice in eight days in February in Marin City, once of potentially harmful drugs and once of about $60 in cash receipts. All three thefts occurred at night, the last two on Cole Drive.

Marin's Population Is Moving Up Fast

Marin County's population is nudging the 200,000 mark, according to the State Department of Finance.

In a new estimate today, the department placed the county's population at 196,000. This is an increase of 8,300, or 4.4 per cent, from the state's estimate of 188,600 a year ago. It is 5,000 above an estimate made a few months ago by the Marin County Development Assn.
